STUFF ARRIVING FOR COUNTY FAIR

Officials Are Hoping That Weather
Man Will be More Kind That he Has Been to Other Fairs.

RACING ON THE FIRST DAY

Purses Offered This Year Total
$3,580. Different Attractions
For Each Night's Program.

Concessions, race horses and show stuff began arriving today for the fifty-ninth annual exhibition of the Rush County Fair association,
which will be held Tuesday, Wednesday,
Thursday and Friday of next week.

Fair officials are hopeful that they will be treated more considerately
by the weather man than other county fairs have been this year.
There has not been a fair in this part of Indiana this year which has not suffered heavy losses from bad weather. In some instances only one day of racing has been possible.

There will be racing every day at the fair this year. Tuesday morning, commencing at eight o'clock, there will be a showing of farm products, fruits and vegetables. A reception to homecomers and family reunions will take place at the special tent provided for that purpose
at the center of the ground. This is an innovation started by Secretary
J. Q. Thomas.

Tuesday afternoon there will be the initial parade of stock preparatory to awarding premiums. The afternoon program includes a fox
chase, county road trot, county road pace and a county road run. It is stated by the secretary that there is no doubt about the fox chase being held because this year the fox are carefully guarded against escape.

Tuesday night the program includes a band concert, some special attractions and a display of fireworks.

Wednesday there will be awarded prizes in table luxuries, poultry,
draft horses, beef breeds of cattle,
jacks and mules, farm implements and vehicles and in the fine arts department.

Wednesday afternoon will be devoted to racing. The 2:30 trot, the 2:20 pace and the 2:24 trot are on the program. This will be the first day of the $500 purse races. A race with a purse of $500 is a rare
thing on a Rush county fair program and the 2:30 trot, in which this purse is offered, is expected to bring out a large field.

Wednesday night's attractions
will be out of the ordinary. Prizes will be awarded in the class for farm teams, ladies' turnouts and ponies. There will also be a half mile run on the program. The special attractions will be changed.

Thursday morning's showings
will be in the classes for milk breeds
of cattle, general purpose horses, sheep and hogs. In addition to the usual three races in the afternoon, there will be a half mile run and
some special attraction.

The first race on the Thursday afternoon program, the 2:15 pace, is for $500. The 2:16 trot is for $300 and a purse of $500 is hung up in the 2:25 purse. Fifty dollars is the half mile running event, making
the total purses for Thursday afternoon alone $1,350.

Thursday night's offering will consist of band concerts, new special attractions, a display of fireworks and motor races.

Friday morning premiums will be awarded in classes for light harness horses, roadsters, hardware and leather work, flowers and shrubbery,
and

NIGHT WATCHMAN DIES OF TYPHOID

"Jackie" Sullivan Suddenly Grows
Worse and Expires Today After Illness of Two Weeks.

FUNERAL SET FOR SUNDAY

Frank Sullivan, commonly known
as "Jackie," city night watchman, died this morning at four o'clock at the home of his father, Thomas Sullivan, in North Morgan street, following a short illness from typhoid fever.
The death of Mr. Sullivan came as a great shock to his many friends and family. He had been ill about two weeks and from all indications was holding his own against the disease. He was taken worse yesterday and the end came this morning.

"Jackie," as he was known to all,
was thirty-three years old. He had been night watchman here for the past five years. He was well liked
and was popular among all classes.
He was first taken ill with a heavy cold, which bordered on pneumonia.
Typhoid then developed.

He is survived by his widow and six children. He also leaves his father, one brother, Jerry, and two sisters, Miss Mae Sullivan and Mrs.
D. D. Drago.

The funeral services will be conducted Sunday afternoon at two o'clock at the Catholic church and burial will take place in Calvary cemetery.

STILL HOPE TO AVOID A BREAK

Administration is Sitting Tight and Waiting For Explanations From Berlin Today.

NO WORD RECEIVED BY NOON

Forecasts as to Germany's Probable Contentions Are Made—Deposition on the Way.

BY CHARLES P. STEWART.
(U. P. Staff Correspondent.)

Washington, August 21.—Threatening as was the German-American outlook today, officials were still hopeful that the Arabic affairs would not lead to a break.

Explanations were looked for from Berlin. The administration is not irreconcilable, it was said by high authorities. It will not submit to a slap in the fact from Germany, but it has no intention of disregarding the kaiser's foreign office, if the letter has anything to say.

Reports were current that an explanation of some kind had already been foreshadowed in messages by way of Sayville.

The suggestion most commonly advanced was that Germany would declare:

The Arabic was torpedoed when still its armed convoy's protection zone.

That the White Star liner tried to ram the submarine.

That the liner either tried to escape or at least executed some maneuver which entitled the German commander to believe escape was being attempted.

Pessimists agreed that none of these contentions could be made good.

The situation was tense. It was recognized that possibly a break is inevitable.

No further official word had been received at noon today.

Depositions from the American survivors of the liner were expected momentarily by cable from Ambassador Page. Though they have been dispatched they have not arrived here yet.

Conviction grew that the administration would do nothing until all the facts were learned.

Not a word had come from Ambassador Gerard. It was expected he would be asked to seek a statement through the kaiser's admiralty.

Officials regarded the situation as serious but they stated confidentially that they believed a way would be found to avoid a break with Germany. They would not reveal their reason for thinking that.

FARM SOLVES JAIL PROBLEM

Many of Them Are Empty Since Putnamville Institution Started—is Self-Supporting.

NOT YET READY FOR WINTER

Prisoners Engaged in Construction of Railroad, Grubbing, Reclaiming Land And Farming.

(U. P. Staff Correspondent.) Indiana State Farm, Putnamville, Ind., Aug. 21.—Men that otherwise would be a dead weight on their communities—567 of these men—are here living again the life of the Hoosier pioneer.

Rescued from idleness in the county jails these men are engaged in the primitive work of building a settlement out of the raw materials and instead of being a burden to the state, they are supporting themselves.

Members of the state board of charities, a non-partisan board, are known to believe that this farm solves the county jail problem. Secretary Butler of the board has reported that many county jails are empty since the farm was opened.

Located on a tract of 1,600 acres, the farm presents most of the features of Indiana's natural resources. Prisoners have felled trees in its forests for lumber to build the one-story structures. They have quarried their stone and dug their own wells. Now they are planting orchards, harvesting crops and erecting more buildings.

The contract has just been let for a $20,000 power plant. This will furnish heat and power. A pumping station connected with it will supply 600 gallons of water a minute. So the prisoners do not have to deal entirely with raw materials.

The United Press interviewed C. E. Talkington, superintendent of the farm, today to get his idea of what the farm is doing, what is needed and what its future will be.

Asked whether the farm is ready for winter, Talkington said it is not. We must first install the heating plant, he said. "With it will come the lighting plant, more permanent water system and the laundry. We need also a hospital and a recreation building. The institution is being built by prison labor and we are required to have the prison labor before the work can be done.

"Winter will make some changes in the work," he said. We will be prepared to furnish productive labor for prisoners during the winter months. Our chief work will consist of clearing land, ditching and operating a small stone crushing plant, which should be enlarged. The prisoners are now engaged in building construction, road building, railroad grading, fencing, sewer digging, grubbing, reclaiming land, farming and gardening. At present the only industrials that bring profit are farming and gardening.

Talkington pointed out the one prisoner sentenced under the new "lazy husband" law. The man was working industriously. "He works very well," said Talkington.

"It is difficult to estimate the value of the labor to the state," said the superintendent. "The state is getting the institution built and is paying only the salaries of officers and employees, the cost of building material not produced here and the cost of maintenance of prisoners. The price of meals at present is about 15 cents per prisoner per day. The monthly payroll has never exceeded $800. However, we need more employees."

Talkington was asked concerning the "escape" problem. He said that out of 857, the total number committed, 64 have escaped. Of these 23 have been recaptured. All recaptured prisoners have either been tried and sentenced to state prison for from two to five years, or are in jail awaiting trial.

"I think this punishment entirely suitable, and while it has not entirely prevented escapes, it probably will greatly reduce the number when better understood. New prisoners do not seem impressed with the fate of

Poultry Can Be Kept Successfully On Small Farms And City Tracts

(By United Press.)

Washington, D. C., Aug. 21.—Poultry can be kept successfully on a small amount of land, for this reason, it is particularly adapted to the suburbs of large cities and to small towns. The waste products of the kitchen and the table may be used to advantage and there is always a market for eggs and dressed poultry or, if used at home, the consumer is certain that he has a strictly fresh product.

When many birds are kept in a small space, however, the ground is likely to become foul. It is, therefore, advisable to divide the lot and sow part of it with some quick growing grain such as oats, wheat or rye. In this way the yards may be rotated every three or four weeks during the growing season, the hens being turned on the growing grain when it is a few inches high. A good combination is oats and wheat in equal parts, sowing six or seven bushels to the acre (43,560 square feet).

For the poultry house, about four square feet of floor space per bird should be allowed for the general purpose breeds. The other essentials are fresh air, dryness and sunlight.

Birds that are too fat will lay few eggs. It is therefore, advisable to make them work for most of their feed by scratching in the litter of which there should be about four inches on the floor. A good feed mixture is a scratch ration composed of equal parts of corn, wheat and oats and a mash of two parts corn meal and one part each of bran, middlings and corn meal. Feeding about equal quantities of the scratch ration and of mash. This should be scattered in the litter morning and

Talkington suggested that the legislature would do well to allow what he called a "good time," commuting, for example 5 days out of 30 for good deportment and labor. He suggested also that a small wage be allowed a man's family or those dependent on him.

The courts are co-operating with the farm, he said, but he asked that they exercise more care not to send to the farm men of unsound mind or with diseased bodies, cripples, derelicts and etc. "We are not equipped to handle such cases and feel they should not be sent here at present. I should like to suggest to the courts that this institution be not required to accept prisoners with sentences of longer than one year.

"Those with short sentences are not so apt to try to escape, when they realize they are making themselves liable to sentences of from 2 to 5 years in the state prison."

Talkington said that the plan of the institution, as he understood it, was to feed the men with good wholesome food, give them plenty of hard work, restore them to health, preserve strict discipline, but at the same time to let them know they are trusted and that they can again become self respecting men.

There are at present 567 prisoners. The largest number at any one time was 586. Talkington prepared the following list giving the crimes and the number sentenced under each.

Offence Number committed

Gives Party Bad Start

Although "Who's Who in America" shows that Victor Murdock of Kansas is forty-four years old, he would appear to be a typical representative of a younger generation that has neglected its Bible and may not safely venture to adorn its literary style with Biblical allusion. Mr. Murdock announces his readiness "to say flat-footedly that we Progressives are going into the 1916 election as a party and to win." In this utterance he trod the politician's familiar ground safely enough, but unfortunately he was tempted to say further that the Progressive platform had become "the Ark of the Covenant" to hundreds of thousands of "aggressive Americans" and that "there is not a township anywhere without its groups of Hittites devoted solely to its preservation."

Mr. Roosevelt has likened the Progressives to the "hosts of Armageddon" and Mr. Murdock seems to wish to frame his political pronouncements after the models furnished by his admired chief, but when he describes the faithful members of his party as "Hittites" he invites the smile of any half-grown youngster who knows the inside of a Sunday school. Apparently Mr. Murdock has forgotten that the Hittites were one of the condemned nations that were driven out of the promised land by chosen and victorious Israel. In consequence he has blundered into a Biblical allusion whereby he unintentionally begins his party's campaign of 1916 with a prophecy of disaster.

Ford Prefers Newspapers.

Speaking before the St. Louis Advertising club recently, C. A. Brownell who has been advertising manager of the Ford Motor company for nine years, said:

"Our advertising department, in buying advertising is absolutely devoid of sentiment, as in the buying of vanadium steel or any other merchandise. We figure that it is as much a part of the cost of producing an automobile as is the steering wheel or the carburetor, and we buy our advertising in as cold blooded a way as we do the steering wheel. For our purpose, we almost exclusively use the newspapers, because we find that through them we reach the people along the lines of the least resistance."

"One of our reasons for selecting the newspapers is that we have learned to follow the local advertisers' lead. We have for a long time used the so-called national magazines, but I would rather, 10 to 1, insert a moderate sized copy in a newspaper than in any of the national magazines, because I know that there will come face to face with the man who is going to buy a car alongside the intimate reading matter that is part of his daily reading. It is because of this possibility of getting in close personal touch with them that we use the newspapers, and I would rather be where the mass of advertising is, in the newspapers that carry the most than not. Place it in the paper which is the most used."

His Biggest Interest

A man in another state was once asked which of his several investments paid him highest rate of interest, and he promptly replied that it was the three dollars he paid on his subscription to the local paper.

"One day I wanted to buy a cow," he said, "and was intended to make a trip of about fifteen miles to get one that I knew was for sale at a certain price. But just before starting I happened to pick up the local paper and noticed that a nearby neighbor was offering one of the same breed at a dollar less than the other one. He really sold it to me for $4 less. I saved a long thirty mile drive and $4 in cash because I had paid a dollar for the paper."

"That was just one instance, but as a matter of fact I saved both time and money in fifteen or twenty different ways during the year, and all through reading the ads in a paper that cost me but three dollars a year. I consider that three dollars the best investment I ever made, and I am investing as regularly as the year rolls around, and always with the most satisfactory results."

APPEALS FOR A HEALTHY BODY

State Superintendent Greathouse Issues Statement in Connection With Special Day.

NECESSARY FOR SCHOOLS

Health is Prime Asset For Boys and Girls, Statement on Disease Prevention Day Says.

An appeal for healthier bodies for Indiana boys and girls has just been issued by Charles A. Greathouse, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, in connection with Indiana's observance of Disease Prevention Day, Friday, October 1.

"Healthy bodies for the boys and girls of Indiana are necessary qualifications for successful public school work" says Greathouse. "Health bespeaks enjoyment of life and greater efficiency in doing one's work in the world. Disease decreases deficiency. Ignorance of the simple rules of everyday living or carelessness in obeying them is often the cause of arrested development.

"What shall it profit a state, if, through education, the children are given power, both intellectual and spiritual, yet through disease they lose the physical vigor with which to act upon the world so as to become effective future citizens?

"The most important mission of our schools and one of the most sacred civics obligations of this age consists in the prevention of disease, the preservation of health, the prolongation of life through the dissemination of a knowledge of the simple fundamental laws of health and sanitation among our rising generation.

"Recognizing this fact the State Department of Public Instruction heartily endorses the Governor's Proclamation of Disease Prevention Day and, therefore, urges all school superintendents, teachers and patrons to co-operate in this great movement of social and educational betterment."

ROCKEFELLER IS CHANGED MAN

He is Entirely Different Since His Wife Died, Attendants at Forest Hill Say.

STILL MAKES VISIT TO POND

Cleveland, O., August 21—There's a changed master at Forest Hill, the big estate of the world's richest man.

That's what John D. Rockefeller's closest friends are saying, after visits to the oil king's estate. The old attendants know what has caused the change, they say. It is because their mistress has gone. For the first time, Rockefeller tramps and drives about his estate without the companion of his wife, who died last February.

Most every morning, about 9 o'clock, Rockefeller walks slowly down from the big house to the lily pond at the foot of the long north slope. He stands for a moment watching the waters, then turns sadly away.

In past years, Rockefeller and his wife used to stroll to the pond, arm in arm, every morning after breakfast, which was served promptly at 7 o'clock. Attendants tell, too, how the changed master broke down and cried at his first breakfast at Forest Hill when he saw the empty chair.

Rockefeller formerly played golf with a keen delight almost every day. He seldom plays now and when he does, the old-time swing is not there. "Under every tree near my house here I see a memory picture of children playing and merry family groups," Rockefeller tells visitors. "I am happiest here."

TURKS KILLING ALL PRISONERS

Warfare Without Quarter is Being Conducted by Them on Gallipoli Peninsula

BELIEVE EMPIRE AT STAKE

Every Available Man is Being Used And Government Restrictions Are Very Strict

BY HENRY WOOD
(U. P. Staff Correspondent.)

Constantinople, July 21 (By Courier to Dedeagatch and thence by mail to New York)—A warfare almost without quarter is being conducted by the Turks on the Gallipoli peninsula, according to stories circulated here. That no prisoners are being taken is freely charged.

What becomes of some of the English and French who fall into the hands of Turks, was unconsciously tipped off by one of the Turkish wounded recently. Upon his arrival at a hospital at which the American Red Cross is in charge he expressed his amazement at resemblance of the American doctor, whose name for obvious reasons I dare not mention, to an English soldier whom his company had taken prisoner a few days before and the latter had killed.

"But why did you kill him?" demanded the American Red Cross doctor.

"Why he was our prisoner," replied the simple minded and somewhat puzzled Turk.

No doubt exists any longer in the mind of any Turk that the existence of the Ottoman empire is at stake in the fighting now going on at the Dardanelles. This is believed to explain to a large degree the manner in which the last men of the empire are still coming forward to fight and in which the government is permitted without protest to drain the entire country of its last resource for the conduct of the war.

Not a day passes at Constantinople that the trains and boats do not bring small but fresh contingents of men from the farthest points of the empire. As a rule each lot does not number more than 50 or 100 but they come regularly every day if not several times a day. For the most part now they are old men with gray hair and gray beards. They march stolidly into town, clad in rags with which they have left their herds or villages, and proceed to the commissary headquarters. There they are fitted out with uniforms and arms and a few days later march out again for the Dardanelles.

In equal manner every incoming train and ship brings its little quota of food for the army. For the most part, this consists of a herd of sheep. It is driven through the streets of the city from the train or boat that brought it in, to the army slaughter house, and the next day it too is rushed to the Dardanelles in the form of fresh meat.

To secure food supplies for the army the government has adopted the rule of requisitioning everything it needs. Only in a few instances has even a small portion of the price been paid in cash. The rule is to give a receipt which states that the government at some indefinite time in the future will pay.

In strange contrast to the official announcements of continual successes by the Turkish troops on the peninsula is the arrival of the wounded.

When the approach of a hospital transport is signalled all of the public cabs are ordered to the water front to bring the soldiers up to the hospitals. Street cars flying the flags of the Turkish Red Crescent Society are also used. One night this interminable cortege of wounded began passing my hotel at 10:30 in the evening. At 4:30 it was still passing. It makes less impression on the public. It is now believed that there are not less than 100,000 at Constantinople but they are all soldiers with slight wounds as the most seriously injured are kept at Rodosto where more prompt attention can be given them.

In an effort to raise additional revenues for the war the duty on imports has been raised to 30 per cent. This does not apply to things which can be used in the conduct of the war. They come in without duty the government reserving the right to requisition them as soon as they arrive.

The restrictions for the government of foreigners still living in Turkey have been redoubled. To quit the empire, a special permit must be secured from the police. To have this it is necessary to give 48 hours notice of the intention to leave. Then after the police have secured all information possible from outside sources, the applicant must present himself personally and submit to an interrogation. If he can convince the police that his intentions for leaving are purely legitimate he is granted the "veicika" or permit.

SPEEDWAY IS AN IDEAL LOCATION

Greatest Place For "War in Indiana," Spectacle to be Produced Labor Day.

A VETERAN IS IN CHARGE

Captain J. J. Toffy, of United States Army, Will Direct Maneuvers of Indiana National Guard.

Indianapolis, August 21.—West Point strategy and a millionaire's purse have joined forces to make the great war spectacle, "War in Indiana," to be staged at the Indianapolis motor speedway, Monday, Labor day, the greatest event of its kind ever held.

Captain J. J. Toffy, of the United States army, a veteran of the Philippine campaign, and Carl G. Fisher, president of the Indianapolis motor speedway, have been placed in supreme charge of the production, with power to mould it as they see fit.

After a preliminary examination of the speedway, Captain Toffy immediately proceeded to block out the strategic phases of the spectacle, sketching in entrenchments, buildings, and field positions as he went along. Toffy's idea is to have continuous, smooth, and flowing action, that will not admit the spectator a moment's rest.

"The speedway is the greatest place for a show of this kind I ever saw," said Toffy. "The immense stretch of grandstands, enclosing two sides of the course, coupled with the arrangement of safety walls, barbed wire fences, woods, creeks, natural embankments, etc., makes possible the production of a spectacle in which every essential detail will take place immediately in front of the stands. 'War in Indiana,' will be the most exciting that ever happened."

With Fisher's promotive energy and unlimited financial resources to back him, Toffy will be able to put on a spectacle that will be perfect in every detail. From the firing of the opening gun to the finish it will be a literal reproduction of warfare in Europe—the greatest, most stupendous production ever staged in this country.

ST. PAUL SPEEDWAY ABOUT COMPLETED

Course is Two Miles And is Constructed of Concrete—Cost About One Million

BIG RACE SET FOR SEPT. 4.

(By United Press.)

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 21.—Work was being completed today putting into shape St. Paul's mammoth speedway, at a cost of $1,000,000. Sept. 4, a 500-mile race, with automobile drivers of world fame, will be held. The names of Resta, De Palma, Oldfield, Wilcox, Cooper Porporato, Anderson, Bergdall and Wheeler appear in the entries. The purse will be $50,000, of which $20,000 will go to the winner.

There will be 75,000 grand stand seats, 18,000 bleacher seats and room for parking automobiles holding 25,000 persons. The track is 2 miles long in the shape of a flattened ellipse, and will be paved with concrete to a depth of six inches.

FRISCO RACE MEET OPENS

San Francisco, Aug. 21.—Thirty days of running horse races opened here today. Thoroughbreds from all parts of the country are here to compete in the meet of the Panama-Pacific Exposition track for stakes ranging in value from $1,000 to $1,500 and totaling $50,000.

MANY MOTOR TO PANAMA FAIR FINALLY DECIDED

Strange Machines Are Plentiful at San Francisco Along With Strange Sights

FLIVVERING "SOME" VACATION

Large Number of Trans-Continental Tourists Get Back to Nature Along Route

BY FRED S. FERGUSON
(U. P. Staff Correspondent.)

San Francisco, Aug. 21.—Hop in your flivver and come out to the fair.

There are now hundreds, possibly thousands of automobiles from every part of the country in San Francisco today. Some have been here long enough after trans-continental drives to be cleaned up so that they look like home cars. In that event the fact that they are several hundred miles from home is not revealed until they kick up the dust in your face and you catch a glimpse of their license tag. Others roll through the streets coated with dust and splattered with many thicknesses of mud. They are the new arrivals.

Flivvering to the Fair is obviously the way in which hundreds of Americans are spending their vacations. The Ferries are carrying scores of machines across the bay daily as they roll into Oakland and snort along the water front to be carried over the last leg of their journey to Frisco. Packed away amidst suitcases, tents, coats and coverings of every description are dusty, sunburned men and women. They may look like tramps, but they're happy.

Some of them have traveled from ocean to ocean. Others came from the northwest middlewest or the south. But all have seen more of the country than they ever saw before or had ever hoped to see. Many of them have lived in the open for weeks. Fearing their appetites, the sea lions on the rocks off the Cliff House have disappeared. It is a real invasion of a great army on wheels; an army of men, women and childrenrawn into the open and across the continent by the exposition, and, having been drawn, entering into the thrills of the new experience with vigor.

All the trans-continental trips are not being made "in the rough," as one motor enthusiast put it, but in hundreds of cases the parties have slept in the open at night, cooked their meals at the roadside and "got back to nature." Hotels are patronized only when the weather is bad or it is decided to grant special dispensation for a meal off a table, a tub and a soft bed. In the "de lux" trips, travel, is by easy stages and the schedule is so framed as to bring the party within reach of a hotel by nightfall.

In one garage the other night cars from Tennessee, Pennsylvania, Ohio, New Jersey and Michigan were standing side by side. In another were machines from New York, Illinois, Georgia, Alabama, Wisconsin and Indiana. The whole list of the states of the Union might be gone through and for everyone there is a representative car being cleaned up in some garage. Every driver observes the traffic rules he knew at home, but knowing nothing about San Francisco's rules, the latter are cracked in fifty different ways each day.

The different types of cars which have traveled over desert and plain, forded rivers and climbed mountains is not only startling, but in some cases appalling. The big machines are taken as a matter of course, but you ought to see some of the weather beaten little fellows. It seems that for some of them every breath will be their last as the long journey is completed. They sneak into a garage with tail dragging and all pep gone. See them again, however, a short time afterward when the mud has been taken off and the dust cleaned out of their lungs and you'll see them, tail up and snorting, just as friskey as the day they left home.

WEIGHTY TOPIC FINALLY DECIDED

G. H. Hendren, Chief of State Board of Accounts, Gives Opinion on Transportation

INDIANA SCHOOL CHILDREN

Pupils in Townships Where Schools Have Been Abandoned Must be Taken to School

County Superintendent C. M. George has received the following letter from the state examiner concerning the transportation of pupils in townships where schools have been abandoned. According to the superintendent this has been a weighty question and this decision decides the matter definitely. The letter in full follows:

The act of March, 11, 1907, as amended March 14, 1913, requires township trustees to provide and maintain means of transportation for all pupils in an abandoned school district who live more than two miles and for all pupils between the ages of six and twelve who live more than one mile from the schools to which they are attached.

This act further requires township trustees in all townships where a school has been abandoned under the provisions of said act to provide for the transportation of all pupils of any other school in such townships, who live more than two miles and of all pupils between the ages of six and twelve who live more than one mile from the school to which they are attached, whenever a majority of the patrons of such school petition the trustee to provide such transportation.

Thus it will be seen that the township trustees are authorized to transport pupils of their townships in the following cases:

First, those pupils who live in an abandoned school district and who live more than two miles from the school to which they are transferred and those pupils similarly situated between the ages of six and twelve who live more than one mile from the school to which they are transferred.

Second, where a school has been abandoned under the act of 1907, as amended in 1913, and there are pupils in any other district of said township who live more than two miles, and pupils between the ages of six and twelve who live more than one mile from the school to which they are attached, when a majority of the patrons of such school district petition the trustee to provide such transportation.

Yours very truly,
G. H. HENDREN,
State Examiner

ANOTHER ATTEMPT TO LOWER RECORD

Motorcycle Riders at State Fair Ground Will go After Mark

Made Last Year

VARIED PROGRAM OFFERED

(By United Press.)
Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 21.—Motorcyclists this afternoon made another attempt to break the fair ground track record of 49 seconds for a mile made by Ray Creviston of Converse, Ind., on an Indian last fall. It was the third attempt this summer to lower Creviston's record. A varied program of races from a five mile novelty race of side cars in which the passengers and drivers changed at the end of each hour, to a fifty mile event drew a large crowd of the two wheeled motor race bugs. A pursuit race in which the riders started at equal distances and put rivals out of the race by passing them was the most popular race of the afternoon.

True Secret of Keeping
Youthful Looking

(The Beauty Seeker.)
"The real secret of keeping young-looking and beautiful," says a well-known hygienist, "is to keep the liver and bowels normally active. Without these requisites, poisonous waste products remain in the system, polluting the blood and dredging up various organs, tissues, joints. One becomes flabby, obese, nervous, mentally sluggish, dull-eyed, wrinkled and sallow of face."

"But to get liver and bowels working as they ought, without producing evil after-effects, has been the problem. Fortunately, there is now a prescription of unquestioned merit which may now be had in convenient tablet form. Its value is due largely to an ingredient derived from the humble May apple, or its root, which has been called 'vegetable calomel' because of its effectiveness—though, of course, it is not really classed with the real calomel of mercury origin. There is no habit-forming constituent in 'sentinel tablets'—that's the name—and their use is not followed by weakness or exhaustion. On the contrary, these harmless vegetable tablets tend to impart tone and elasticity to the relaxed intestinal wall. Sentinel tablets, which may be procured from any druggist, a dime's worth will do—will prove a revelation to any constipated, liver-troubled person."

Chief Cause of Pimples,
Blotches, Sallow Skin

Unsightly eruptions, pimples, blotches, sallow or muddy skin, usually are due to a sluggish liver, a constipated bowel—and a polluted blood stream as a consequence. How foolish in such cases to resort to outward applications, which can never have any permanent results. If more people only knew it, there is a very simple remedy, to be found in any drug store, which is as effective as it is harmless and quick acting. It is an old formula, long recognized by the medical profession, which has been put in tablet form, and at such small cost no one need now be deprived of its wonderful benefits.

"Sentinel tablets"—that's the name—are entirely vegetable and there's no habit-forming ingredient. You need only get about a dime's worth, and swallow one at a time to realize there's nothing else quite so good for the complexion in the marketing is so easy, so soothing, and instead of a weakening after-effect, you feel truly refreshed and invigorated. Sentinel tablets are not only the finest remedy known for constipation and torpid liver, but offer the sanest, most sensible treatment for complexion difficulties of the character mentioned.

Great Demand for New
Constipation Remedy

They say that the advent of the "sentinel tablet" as a vegetable substitute for calomel has resulted in an extraordinary demand for this remarkable product. It seems to have made a hit particularly with those afflicted with chronic constipation, who were quick to recognize its advantages over calomel and the usual laxatives.

Sentinel tablets, aside from their efficacy, doubtless owe their success largely to a tendency to aid in bringing about natural functioning—instead of encouraging the "cathartic habit." Also, instead of being a mere concoction, like many of the organs involved, they exert a healing influence. Instead of weakening, they add tone to the intestinal wall. And they work so easily and gently, they are of course preferred on this account to the violently acting preparations. Their impersonal character is another reason for the popularity of sentinel tablets. One need procure only a dime's worth, and take one tablet upon retiring, to be convinced that the ideal remedy for constipation, torpid liver, and their many evil consequences, has finally been found—Drugists Review.

Department of Agriculture Does Not

Indict Middleman as a Class in Bulletin.

DISTRIBUTION IS DISCUSSED

Economic Laws Would Not Long

Permit Existence of Agency
Which is a Parasite.

The present abundance of fresh vegetables and fruits brings with it the perennial necessity for their rapid, economical distribution and for encouraging a generous and steady consumption. The machinery for moving these food products is complex and retail dealers are often accused of not following closely the wholesale market quotations; that in times of glutted markets do not cut prices severely and aid in a rapid movement from producer to consumer. But the responsibility for slow and uneconomical movement into consumptive channels is difficult to trace. The large class of food distributors known as "middlemen" are often accused of levying, arbitrarily, a heavy tribute on all stuffs from the producer to the consumer. The attention of the public has been frequently directed to increased costs of products rather than service rendered. The new United States Department of Agriculture Bulletin, No. 267, Methods of Wholesale Distribution of Fruits and Vegetables on Large Markets, does not indict the "middlemen" as a class, although it points out some of the abuses in the trade. As a matter of fact, say the Department's specialists, when discussing the present marketing organization, economic laws would not permit the long continued existence of a marketing agency which was solely a parasite.

Several important factors have contributed to the establishment of many middlemen as necessary agents in the present system of marketing. Production during last decade has increased greatly, and improved methods and facilities for handling the increase have been introduced. Keeping pace with increased production has come the demand of consumers for more elaborate and efficient service. Seldom is the fact considered that service can become a very expensive luxury. With the widening of the distance between the city and the sources of its fruit and vegetable supplies there has arisen the necessity for special agencies to meet the changed conditions.

The present distributive machinery, with all its strong points and its weaknesses, has been created of necessity, and it has weathered the storm of much adverse criticism. Every part of the country is now enjoying the perishable products of the most remote districts. Any readjustment of present market practices must be based upon the fact that some agency must continue to perform the functions of the present-day middleman.

The problems involved in handling goods through a large market differ greatly from those of production. Usually one man or one firm can not handle both production and distribution and succeed at both. The vast volume of business transacted at large market centers makes necessary some special agencies which can devote all their energies to distribution. Especially does the machinery for efficient marketing become necessary when perishable goods are to be handled. Commodities of this sort must be moved rapidly, must be distributed evenly, and from their very nature permit of no weakness in distributive machinery, if they are to be sold at a profit.

With the perishable nature of a large part of the fruits and vegetables marketed there must be some loss. This often totals higher than the farmer realizes. For instance, according to the Department's market agent the loss to such commodities as strawberries, peaches, and grapes sometimes amounts to 30 or 40 per cent before they reach the hands of the retail being held.

BURSTING SHELLS CAUGHT BY CAMERA

This remarkable photograph, one of the London Mail's prize pictures, was taken "somewhere in France," and shows three shells bursting over a house. An exact reproduction of this scene will be staged during the great war spectacle, "War in Indiana," at the Indianapolis motor speedway, Monday, September 6. Smoke bombs, minus the shrapnel, will be employed to give the effect of flying shells. The result will be just as picturesque though not as deadly.

Soldiers—Ran Under Fire

SAY YELLOW STREAK SHOWED

Kind of a Fued Has Always Existed Based on Which Side Had Most Chivalry

BY WILLIAM PHILIP SIMMS
(U. P. Staff Correspondent.)

Paris, Aug. 3: (By Mail)—Northern France accuses Southern France of lacking courage, of possessing a yellow streak, of talking a whole lot and doing little in the way of slaughtering Germans.

Since the very commencement of the war stories have been going the rounds concerning the behavior of certain regiments, said regiments being recruits in the Midi-Southern France. Boiled down these stories have it that these regiments turned and fled in disorder immediately when they found themselves under fire; that this happened more than once but that the guilty regiments had been badly punished.

Is it true that Frenchmen from Southern France make bad soldiers? To the neutral observer this would not appear true for four of France's greatest generals hail from that corner of the country. These are General Joffre, General Gallieni, General Foch and General Castelnau.

Between Northern and Southern France there has always been a fued not unlike that which exists—or did exist—between the North and the South in the United States. So far as outsiders are concerned, France is France without distinctions as to the particular part of the country one claims as home. But among themselves the Northerner looks down on the Southerner and vice-versa; both claim to be the real true French, both the speakers of the purest language; both claim chivalry as their own particular birthright and so on up and down the line.

I asked a highly educated soldier belonging to one of the regiments which are said to have distinguished themselves by bad "morale" under fire, what was in the story. He replied:

"We are blamed for what has happened in every war since wars began; we ran but we did only what the best soldiers in the world would have done, and would have done again under similar circumstances."

The war broke out suddenly. Almost without a warning we were hustled out of offices, from behind counters, from desks and studies into uniforms and rushed into trains. Our trains went directly upon the battlefield and we were detained actually under heavy fire. We did not have time to assemble, to get our bearings, anything. We got off the train to be shot down. Somebody ran. Somebody else followed. Two more followed the first and the others seeing some running away, followed suit. It is a psychological fact that this is what happens under these circumstances.

"We should have been halted a mile to the rear, assembled and marched, in orderly fashion, into firing line. In that way we would have had time to look around, to see where we were, to catch courage one from another. Wake the boldest man from heavy sleep, in the dead of night, and let him have a great danger to face. He will be afraid providing he is not too stupid to have any sensations at all. Wake him up and give him a few minutes time to get himself together, then let him face the danger and he will meet it as a brave man should.

"So it should have been with us. It was bad leadership to precipitate men who had never been under fire, men fresh from the arms of wife or sweetheart or mother, into action in such fashion. Men who have once faced bullets can be handled that way but not raw recruits.

The story that soldiers from the South of France lack courage is no doubt a slander. General Joffre comes from Rivesaltes, in the Pyrenees; General Gallieni from Saint-Beat, also in these mountains; General Foch from the village of Valentine, likewise of the mountains between France and Spain; while General Castelnau calls Gardech his home, the little town being on the plains about Toulon.

These soldiers have already won places in history by their iron courage; they are the men in whose hands the fate of France rests; they are the commanders in chief of all the French and thus far the whole world agrees they are accomplished wonders.

Yes they are from the Midi.

The Southern Frenchman does not lack courage. Nor does he lack patriotism. He is different, yes, from his Northern French brother, but he is all there just the same. He talks differently, eats differently, thinks differently, dresses differently, lives differently, so why should he not fight differently and—in this great war—die differently.

Between the two soldiers weeping and laughing with emotion replied;

"Yes we have seen him. He gave us these medals with his own hands. He shook hands with us. He called us his brave sons."

"And how is he?" cried the Crown Prince.

"Fine," replied the soldiers "and lighthearted when among us. He acts as though it were a holiday instead of a war."

Then the two soldiers recounted to the little prince all the details of the encounter in which they were wounded. And not until he had seen them safely placed in the hospital would he leave their sides. At the station to greet the returning wounded men from the front was also Queen Helena, the Queen Mother Marguerita and the Duke of Genoa.

The number of wounded is being kept secret throughout Italy. The Roman papers have not even been allowed to print the number of today's returning men.

ROME RECEIVES
FIRST WOUNDED

Six Hundred Soldiers Brought to Hospitals There First Horror of The War

CROWN PRINCE AMONG CROWD
Up Until Their Arrival The City Had Gazed Only Upon Those Leaving For Front

BY ALICE ROHÉ

(U. P. Staff Correspondent.)

Rome, July 14 (By Mail)—Six hundred wounded soldiers, the first visual horror of Italy's entrance into the war, arrived in Rome today.

Rome, emotional, responsive, gazed upon the unloading of the two trainloads and their dispath in tram-cars, ambulances and automobiles to the various hospitals. It was a sight long to be remembered. Traffic was stopped as the vehicles bearing the Red Cross passed through the city.

Women wept and men, hats in hand, cheered the returning wounded, while from the same depot fresh recruits were departing for the front.

So far Rome had gazed only upon these departing soldiers, banners had flown, and flowers had pelted the "soldati." Today all was changed. The little Crown Prince and his sisters, his mother Queen Helena and the Queen Mother Marguerita have been at the station to cheer the soldiers on their way to the mountains to join the men with the King.

Today in the midst of the surging crowd the Crown Prince again was among the people. Two wounded men in particular attracted his attention for they wore upon their breasts medals for bravery. Strongly affected at the sight of these two heroes the little Prince insisted that they enter his automobile and be conducted to the hospital in his company. The Roman crowd, watching the scene broke into cheers and wild demonstrations.

"Vive Prince Humbert!" "Vive Savoia," "Vive the army!"

But the Prince of Piedmont, future King of Italy, his eyes fastened eagerly on the two soldiers, began to question them eagerly.

"Have you seen papa—the King?"

The two soldiers, eyes filled with tears, voices broken with emotion tried in vain to reply.

"I would like to go to the front and fight with the soldiers for Italy with papa," he said affectionately, encourage the two soldiers to talk.

"But have you seen papa," he reiterated.

The two soldiers weeping and laughing with emotion replied;

"Yes we have seen him. He gave us these medals with his own hands. He shook hands with us. He called us his brave sons."

"And how is he?" cried the Crown Prince.

"Fine," replied the soldiers "and lighthearted when among us. He acts as though it were a holiday instead of a war."

PLAN IS TRIED IN 57 PLACES

Junior High School Similar to That to be Used Here This Year Organized Elsewhere.

BULLETIN ON THE SUBJECT

U. S. Bureau of Education Says it is to Provide Means For Individual Differences.

Reorganization of education under the junior high school plan or something similar is definitely underway, according to Prof. T. H. Briggs whose review of secondary education has just been issued by the U. S. Bureau of Education. The junior high school plan will be given a trial here this year for the first time.

The junior high school has been defined, as an organization of grades 7 to 8 or 7 to 9 to provide means for individual differences, especially by an earlier introduction of prevocational work and of subjects usually taught in the high school."

school." There are now 57 cities in the United States where junior high schools are organized in unmistakable form.

"One advantage claimed for the junior high school," declares Dr. Briggs, "is that it groups children so that subjects seldom taught in the grammar grades may be introduced, thereby giving each pupil a more intelligent understanding of the work of the world, of the possibilities in the subject and in the pupil himself.

The junior high school also makes easier the transition of pupils to the high school. That the change between the elementary and the high school should be so sharp permits no justification. To bridge this gap by earlier introduction to high-school subjects and methods of teaching has greatly improved results, it is claimed.

The junior high school has furthermore greatly decreased elimination of pupils from school. This elimination after the seventh, eighth, and ninth grades has been one of the greatest reproaches to our educational system. Any plan that promises to retain children in school beyond these grades is worthy of most careful consideration."

The statistics given Dr. Briggs show that a much larger per cent. of students enter high school where junior high schools exist than before they were organized.

That the junior high school furnishes an opportunity of various needed reforms in instruction is the final claim of the new movement, according to Dr. Briggs. He points out that in the junior high school a course of study based on the newer principles of psychology, sociology, and economics, various provisions for individual differences, and especially an improved method of teaching, can now be introduced.

Los Angeles (Cal.) High School; Bute (Mont.) High School; Wisconsin High School, Madison, Wis.; and Horace Mann School, New York City, are cited as successfully organized junior high schools, "Los Angeles having far outstripped all other cities in developing them."

NEED MORE ROOM AT FEDERAL PEN

Because of Crowded Conditions

Next Congress May be Asked For Another Prison

ONE IS NEEDED FOR WOMEN

Only Three States in Union Without Compulsory Education Laws, Are in South

(By United Press.)

Washington, Aug. 21.—Housing federal prisoners has become so serious a problem that it is possible Congress will soon be asked for an appropriation for another penitentiary. For want of room in federal places the government has been distributing male and female prisoners among state prisons, and there are good reasons, it is thought, why these, especially the women, should be directly under Uncle Sam's control.

Inadequacy of present prison facilities is causing Attorney General Gregory no little concern. After a recent inspection of the penitentiary at Fort Leavenworth, he announced that he intended to ask Congress to make further provision for prisoners.

There are but three federal penitentiaries—Atlanta, Ga., Fort Leavenworth, Kan., McNeil Island, Wash. A new one probably would be located somewhere in the East. That would strike a good medium, it is thought between Atlanta and Fort Leavenworth.

"One of the reasons why the federal government should cease sending its prisoners to state institutions," said the Attorney General, "is that the parole laws cannot be properly administered unless prisoners are kept directly under the eyes of government agents. Then, besides, this thing of scattering women prisoners all around is bad generally."

The need of a special prison for women was emphasized by the Attorney General. The possibility of such an institution being authorized is considered remote, yet the head of the Department of Justice will sound sentiment in Congress on the point.

Uncle Sam has only about 40 out of about 500 women in his own prisons. There are approximately 600 males that the Attorney General thinks should be taken out of State penitentiaries.

The statistics given Dr. Briggs show that a much larger per cent.

of students enter high school where junior high schools exist than before they were organized.

That the junior high school furnishes an opportunity of various needed reforms in instruction is the final claim of the new movement, according to Dr. Briggs. He points out that in the junior high school a course of study based on the newer principles of psychology, sociology, and economics, various provisions for individual differences, and especially an improved method of teaching, can now be introduced.

Los Angeles (Cal.) High School;

Bute (Mont.) High School; Wisconsin High School, Madison, Wis.;

and Horace Mann School, New York City, are cited as successfully organized junior high schools, "Los Angeles having far outstripped all other cities in developing them."

A race to avoid being the last state in the Union to adopt compulsory education laws is apparently under way in the Southern states, according to reports received at the United States Bureau of Education. There are now only three states without such laws. Florida having recently joined Texas and South Carolina in adopting compulsory education by legislative enactment. The three states still without such laws are Georgia, Mississippi and Alabama.

Officials of the Bureau of Education pointed out that this year's compulsory educational legislation is part of a big educational advance all along the line. Nearly all the state legislatures were in session during 1915 and much of the educational discussion that has been going on for several years crystallized into law. The Alabama legislature has reconvened for the summer session and much school legislation will be discussed. The fact that the Alabama legislature does not meet again for four years makes it likely that Georgia and Mississippi may get ahead of her in adopting compulsory education, unless action is taken this year.

Another point that the Bureau of Education remarks on is the fact that examination for promotion in schools are going out of fashion.

"Few schools now rely entirely upon examination as a test for promotion," declared W. S. Deffenbaugh, chief of the division of school administration of the U. S. Bureau of Education, in his annual review of school conditions in the smaller cities.

"In some schools," he said, "examinations count one-half, while in others they count only one-fourth. It is now recognized that examinations are not true tests of the pupils' ability to do the next grade's work, and that a pupil would not be promoted on what he knows but on what he can do. Of 756 superintendents in the small cities, 669 say that they are now depending on examination much less than formerly."

(SOCIETY NOTE FROM GEORGIA NEWSPAPER)

The Kokomo Tribune, in its funny column, presents the following society note, suggesting that it would look well in a Georgia newspaper:

A pleasant lynching was enjoyed at a park near this city last evening. The hosts were in full mask costume. The sheriff laughingly turned over the prisoner when courteously requested to do so, and the party, in high spirits, caroling joyous songs, rode to the beautiful hillside selected for the touching ceremony.

The occasion was all that could be desired. Never has the chivalry of the old south shone to better advantage. Always eager to do anything that would help the advancement of Georgia, most of the population of the central part of the state turned out for the event.

There was a pleasing diversion when, before the rope was stretched, Col. Blank, with true southern courtesy, kicked the prisoner in the face. The colonel was heartily cheered, but took his honors modestly. He hoped he said, he knew the duties of a true son of the south, and he would ill wear the name of southern gentleman if he did not occasionally perform some little act to deserve it.

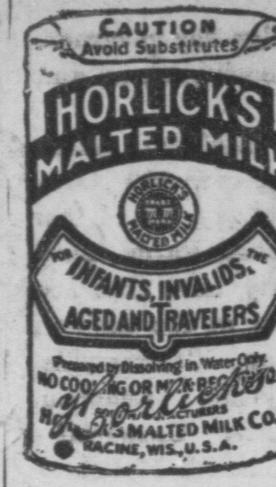

The prisoner was allowed to hang for five hours, so that all could enjoy the spectacle becoming, altho' too rare in our fair state. Special arrangements were made by the committee to allow the children to feast their eyes to the full on the happy sight, so that the little minds might be brought to a real appreciation of the honor and dignity and chivalry of dear old Georgia.

At last the occasion, as all others must come to an end. The body was taken down, the face duly stamped on, and the guests departed to their pleasant homes hoping to see many happy returns of the day.

Labor at federal prisons is a distinct problem with the Department of Justice. If the Attorney General can have his way all federal prisoners will soon be turning out general supplies for the government, including equipment for the army and navy such as uniforms, shoes and caps, Congress will be asked to authorize this. The scheme has worked well in Japan. This is pointed out as another reason back of the plan for concentration of all federal prisoners in all and their combined labor on supplies would save Uncle Sam large sums of money.

A race to avoid being the last state in the Union to adopt compulsory education laws is apparently under way in the Southern states, according to reports received at the United States Bureau of Education. There are now only three states without such laws. Florida having recently joined Texas and South Carolina in adopting compulsory education by legislative enactment. LESS THAN HALF GRAIN THRESHED

This is Assertion of Local Elevator Man Who Has Followed The Situation Closely

STILL PRICES ARE DECLINING

This is Explained by Fact That Banner Crops Are Anticipated in Northwest And Canada

That more than fifty per cent of the wheat in Indiana is threshed and that conditions in the state apply to Rush county, was the assertion today of a local elevator man who has been following the situation closely.

It was possible to do very little threshing this week because of the rain. There were two or three nice days, but just as soon as the grain dried out sufficiently to be threshed, along came another rain and nipped the plans of the farmers in the budding. The loss on the oats crop will be proportionately greater than that on the wheat crop. It has been estimated that not more than fifteen per cent of the oats have been threshed.

Last week the estimate by grain experts was that not more than 30 per cent of the Indiana wheat had been threshed. It would be stretching the point a great deal to assume that twenty per cent of the remainder was threshed this week.

Local elevator men do not expect to receive much more wheat now except that which was threshed before the wet weather began. Wheat that is still standing in the shock is practically useless for elevator purposes and will not likely be threshed even because efforts to dry wheat are not generally very successful.

In spite of the damage that is being done to the wheat crop not only in Indiana but throughout the middlewest by the rains, the price continues to decline. This is said to be due to the fact, a Rushville elevator man said today, that the prospects are brighter than they ever were for a banner crop in the northwest and in Canada. The loss to the crop in the middlewest will be offset, it is believed, by the excellent yields in the northwest and Canada.

Another reason for the continued decrease in the price of wheat is the fact that the allies have already cancelled some orders and that they are now trying to contract for 175,000,000 bushels of this year's crop in Canada. If such a deal is put through, it is declared, the export business from the United States will be practically cut off and all of this year's United States crop will have to be sold here. That would keep the prices here normal, local elevator men say, unless the same weather conditions are experienced in the northwest as here. The crop is just being cut there.

Elevator men say that this year's crop in Canada is estimated at 300,000,000 bushels. Their surplus will amount to 175,000,000, which the Canadians are now trying to sell the allies.

closing with a parade of the premium stock. There will be another fox chase at the close of the morning program.

In the afternoon the 2:12 pace, 2:20 trot and 2:17 pace will be run off. In the first event the purse is $500, in the second $300 and in the third $250, bringing the total in purses offered during the week up to $3,580.

One of the things that is expected to attract special attention at the fair this year is Warren T. McCray's show of blue blooded Herefords, which will be at the Rush county fair. Mr. McCray is president of the Indiana State Board of Agriculture and candidate for the body of her maid, Mrs. Margaret Bond, was also found, the message stated.

Republican nomination for governor. He is a successful business man and Hereford breeder.

The show herd includes about fifty of the flower of over 400 Herefords which Mr. McCray has on his Orchard Lake Stock Farm near Kentland, and county fairs that are now on the itinerary of the Indiana tour are Columbus, Connersville, Rushville, Shelbyville, Lebanon, Frankfort, Lafayette, Crawfordsville, Terre Haute, North Manchester, and others will be added before the fair season closes. Mr. McCray will make the tour with his herd.

Mr. McCray has in ten years advanced from an obscure breeder of Herefords until he now leads the world. He began his Hereford activities in 1905 with five animals. As his herd has grown in numbers and quality, his stock farm has increased until it now includes 1,500, and it is regarded as one of the best equipped breeding farms in the United States. The first pure-bred bull he bought cost $2,500 and it died before he had obtained much service from it. Since last March Mr. McCray has sold $85,000 worth of his stock to breeders scattered from New York to California, and from Minnesota to Georgia and Texas. One bull was sold for $7,500 to a Montana breeder.

While the McCray cattle will be shown in all of the Hereford classes at the county fairs, the chief purpose of the tour is not to win ribbons. It is to be an educational tour, which Mr. McCray hopes all Indiana breeders will obtain inspiration that will stimulate them to greater activity in raising the standard of their own breeds at home.

The herd will spend the week of September 6th at the Indiana State Fair, where they will complete for championship honors, and will be in the day parades of live- stock and in the night horse show.

Bruguiere of New York and Dr. Edmund Woods of Janesville, Wis., were the only Americans on the list, which included twelve other passengers, and officials said they were satisfied the final list will show only two Americans perished. The American consul at Queenstown finally admitted today that only two American perished.

Practically all of the American survivors made affidavits on their arrival at Queenstown. Ambassador Page here today cabled a summary of them to the state department at Washington. It is understood all the Americans agreed the ship was torpedoed without warning.

TURKISH POLICE ARE VERY ACTIVE

Everybody And Everything is Watched by Them as Menace to Empire Increases

CALLS FOR GREAT CAUTION

Position of Germans at Constantinople is Becoming More Delicate Every Day.

BY HENRY WOOD
(U. P. Staff Correspondent.)

Constantinople, (By Courier to Dedeagatch and thence by mail) July 14—More and more, as the existence of the empire becomes menaced more and more does the Turkish police department the one and only department of government for which the Turk has even shown a real genius increase its activities. The Turks say they have a million and a quarter of men under arms. One would be tempted to believe they are referring to the number of policemen.

Recently complaint was made to Enver Pasha that there was too much surveillance of the Scorpion, the United States station ship now anchored in the Bosphorus at the foot of the American College for Girls.

"But it is the duty of the police to watch everything, to watch everybody," replied the 33-year old minister of war. "Every 20 minutes of the day and night a patrol boat passes my house. I am watched like all the rest."

This sensation of being constantly under the eyes of the police produces on the part of the foreigner here a degree of caution. He never knows at what instant a chance word which he may utter may be overheard by a secret policeman and in consequence of which he may be charged with the utterance of treason.

Only a few days ago Colonel Leipsiz the military attaché of the Germany embassy was killed. He was a magnificent type of the German officer, over six feet tall, a gentleman both in appearance and in actuality, known and loved by everyone. The official announcement said that while changing from uniform to civilian dress in a little railway station upon his return from the Dardanelles, his revolver had been accidentally discharged the ball entering his forehead.

There was scarcely a foreigner in all Constantinople who did not see in this mysterious death the culmination at least in part of his convictions that sooner or later the Turks will turn on the German officers now stationed at Constantinople. But not a single person in all Constantinople once expressed this suspicion.

"They say it was accidental," is what everyone said to his most intimate friend and to this remarkable silence alone followed. A word more uttered might have been overheard by a secret police and the individual hauled up for treason.

That the position of the Germans at Constantinople is becoming daily more delicate there can be no question. I know personally that even in the case of the death of Colonel Leipsiz the Turkish censor insisted that the official announcement as prepared by the German ambassador be submitted before being telegraphed to Berlin and that the original text was altered. Many German officers after their days work at the "Quartier General" change to civilian's dress before appearing on the streets in the evening. German and Austrian civilians are leaving by every train. Part of those who left on the same train I did, left cursing the country which had joined them in the war. One German correspondent representing one of Germany's greatest papers—the Berliner Tagblatt—was expelled because he saw things as they actually were and not as the Turks wanted him to see them.

But there is every indication that the German soldiers, sailors and officers now in Turkey will stay to the end. Whatever the fate of Turkey may be there is every indication that not a man will hesitate to share it and if the Turkish empire passes out of existence it is likely these men will pass with it.

ment to store grain for one person, then he must not discriminate and must become, automatically, regulated by the commission law, since he is considered as operating a public utility.

Mr. Lapp said the contention of the warehousemen that the utility law barred them from operating as grain storage houses, unless they desired to be regulated by the commission, was a valid contention but really did not amount to anything, because of the fact that Indiana status regulating warehouses had existed prior to the passage of the utility law and that this former warehouse law provided against discrimination and provided for adequate service, etc., just does the utility law. The former law, however, had little attention paid to it, Mr. Lapp said, whereas the utility law has an executive body to administer the law.

Whenever a warehouseman voluntarily sets himself up as a public warehouse or elevator operator, then he must come under the utility law, Mr. Lapp says, and there can be no question that where such an elevator is operating it must accept grain from any farmer who desires to store it. The operation of recently passed federal status and the utility law now allow the small farmer to store his grain and hold it for higher prices, while using his warehouse receipts as collateral, Mr. Lapp says, while formerly it was usually only the rich farmers who could afford to store their grain for higher prices.

The Store That Sells WOOLTEX

It Pays to Buy New Styles

While They are New

There is so much more pleasure in wearing a new suit while it is brand new in style. Then, too, you have so much longer wear from a suit bought early in the season.

To wait until late in the season to select your Fall Suit is only to deny yourself the pleasure of being stylishly dressed when the styles are fresh and the most attractive.

You'll pay no more for a Wooltex suit now than six or eight weeks later. You get all the additional pleasure and service without additional cost.

You can safely select your new fall suit now. The extensive variety of models, materials and colors provides a truly wonderful assortment from which to choose.

And with all this variety there is correct, authoritative style in every garment—style that will appeal to the woman of refined taste.

Wooltex garments are for women who want to be stylishly dressed at moderate cost.

Give yourself the pleasure of seeing these new WOOLTEX Suits.

Next Wednesday is Red Letter Day

NEW SILKS and DRESS GOODS

No former season has found us so well prepared to provide new dress materials, and never was such a marked improvement noticeable in the product of the looms as is apparent in every piece of silk and dress goods here for your viewing.

In-House Dress Fabrics

It is very evident that the makers have made a concreted effort to stimulate the increasing inclination for home sewing, which promises to become more popular this season than for years past. The diversity of weaves and the wide range of new colors is too great for us to give a satisfactory description of here, but you will find in the display suggestions most timely and valuable when you come to see them.

STUFF ARRIVING FOR COUNTY FAIR

Officials Are Hoping That Weather
Man Will be More Kind Than he Has Been to Other Fairs.

RACING ON THE FIRST DAY

Purses Offered This Year Total
$3,580. Different Attractions
For Each Night's Program.

Concessions, race horses and
show stuff began arriving today for
the fifty-ninth annual exhibition of
the Rush County Fair association,
which will be held Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of next week.

Fair officials are hopeful that they will be treated more considerately
by the weather man than other
county fairs have been this year.
There has not been a fair in this part of Indiana this year which has not suffered heavy losses from bad
weather. In some instances only
one day of racing has been possible.

There will be racing every day at the fair this year. Tuesday morning, commencing at eight o'clock,
there will be a showing of farm products, fruits and vegetables. A reception to homecomers and family reunions will take place at the special tent provided for that purpose
at the center of the ground. This is an innovation started by Secretary
J. Q. Thomas.

Tuesday afternoon there will be
the initial parade of stock preparatory to awarding premiums. The afternoon program includes a fox
chase, county road trot, county road
pace and a county road run. It is stated by the secretary that there is no doubt about the fox chase being held because this year the fox
are carefully guarded against escape.

Tuesday night the program includes a band concert, some special attractions and a display of fireworks.

Wednesday there will be awarded
prizes in table luxuries, poultry,
draft horses, beef breeds of cattle,
jacks and mules, farm implements
and vehicles and in the fine arts department.

Wednesday afternoon will be devoted to racing. The 2:30 trot, the 2:20 pace and the 2:24 trot are on the program. This will be the first day of the $500 purse races. A race with a purse of $500 is a rare
thing on a Rush county fair program and the 2:30 trot, in which this purse is offered, is expected to bring out a large field.

Wednesday night's attractions
will be out of the ordinary. Prizes
will be awarded in the class for farm teams, ladies' turnouts and ponies. There will also be a half mile run on the program. The special attractions will be changed.

Thursday morning's showings
will be in the classes for milk breeds
of cattle, general purpose horses,
sheep and hogs. In addition to the usual three races in the afternoon,
there will be a half mile run and
some special attraction.

The first race on the Thursday
afternoon program, the 2:15 pace,
is for $500. The 2:10 trot is for $300 and a purse of $500 is hung up in the 2:25 purse. Fifty dollars is the half mile running event, making
the total purses for Thursday afternoon alone $1,350.

Thursday night's offering will consist of band concerts, new special attractions, a display of fireworks and motor races.

Friday morning premiums will be awarded in classes for light harness
horses, roadsters, hardware and
leather work, flowers and shrubbery.

TO ENFORCE LICENSE LAW CITY WILL COMPEL NON-RESIDENTS OPERATING HACKS TO PAY

The police and City Treasurer Stech are preparing to enforce the license ordinance for non-resident hack drivers and taxi-cabs during fair week. Many transients operate automobiles between this city and the fair grounds and the city always gets a small amount of revenue for the week. The price for the city license ranges from $5 to $15 for the week. Local owners of hacks and automobiles operating between this city and the fair grounds are not required to pay the license fee.

NIGHT WATCHMAN DIES OF TYPHOID

"Jackie" Sullivan Suddenly Grows
Worse and Expires Today After Illness of Two Weeks.

FUNERAL SET FOR SUNDAY

Frank Sullivan, commonly known
as "Jackie," city night watchman,
died this morning at four o'clock at the home of his father, Thomas Sullivan, in North Morgan street, following a short illness from typhoid fever.
The death of Mr. Sullivan came
as a great shock to his many friends and family. He had been ill about two weeks and from all indications
was holding his own against the disease. He was taken worse yesterday
and the end came this morning.

"Jackie," as he was known to all,
was thirty-three years old. He had been night watchman here for the past five years. He was well liked
and was popular among all classes.

He was first taken ill with a heavy
cold, which bordered on pneumonia.

Typhoid then developed.

He is survived by his widow and six children. He also leaves his father, one brother, Jerry, and two sisters, Miss Mae Sullivan and Mrs.

D. D. Drago.

The funeral services will be conducted Sunday afternoon at two

o'clock at the Catholic church and

burial will take place in Calvary

cemetery.

Reception, Banquet and Dance
Among Features of Kappa Alpha Phi Meeting Here Next Week.

TO BE ENTERTAINED AT FAIR OPENING DAY, WEDNESDAY, TO BE DE- VOTED TO REGISTRATION AND RE- CEPTION AT CAPP HOME AT NIGHT.

Arrangements have all been completed for the fourteenth annual convention of the Kappa Alpha Phi fraternity to be held in Rushville Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of next week. The local chapter is expecting a large number of visitors and reports from all over the state indicate that many will attend.

The official headquarters of the convention will be at the Windsor hotel. The first day will be devoted to registration and on Wednesday night a reception will be held at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Capp. The business sessions, which for the most part will be held in the mornings, will take place in the assembly room of the court house.

The first business session will be held Thursday morning. On Thursday afternoon the delegates and visiting members will be the guests of the local chapter at the Rush County Fair. On Thursday night the annual dance of the fraternity will be given at the Social Club. At the reception to be given at home of Mr. and Mrs. Capp, a program will be given by the Misses Martha Hogsett and Norma Smith.

The final business session will be held Friday morning and the convention will close with the annual banquet that night at the Windsor hotel. At the business session that morning the election of officers will take place. This is always one of the big events as the competition for offices is always keen and this year there are a large number of candidates. The next place of meeting will also be selected at this time.

Several merchants of the city have already decorated their windows in white and blue, the colors of the fraternity.

ARRESTS ARE IN PROSPECT WITH J. A. LAPP

Chas. B. Riley, formerly of this city, says grain warehouses are not compelled to store grain.

SECRETARY GRAIN DEALERS

Lapp contends that if a warehouse man is open for business he must accept business from all.

Charles B. Riley, secretary of the Indiana Grain Dealers' Association, who was at one time a grain dealer of this city and who has many friends here, takes issue with John A. Lapp, director of the bureau of legislative information, concerning the effect of the public service commission law on warehouse operators in Indiana.

Mr. Lapp several days ago gave out a statement, which was published in the Daily Republican, to the effect that reports were being sent broadcast throughout the state, to the farmers that the public service commission law prevented the grain elevator operators from storing grain for Indiana farmers. Since

Mr. Riley raised the question, Mr.
Lapp has reiterated his assertion that the interpretation of the law sent to farmers is incorrect.

Meanwhile, Mr. Riley, in a letter to county agents throughout the state, which Mr. Lapp says was written and sent out prior to his response thereto, takes issue with a circular letter sent to the county agents by Lapp on July 30. In this letter of Lapp's, said Riley, Lapp had advised the county agents that "grain warehouses are compelled to accept grain on storage."

"Mr. Lapp has overlooked the fact that elevators, mills, etc., are strictly private property in this state, and the storage of grain, or other produce therein, is wholly a voluntary matter, like the pasturing of stock of one farmer for another, and only such warehouses as desire to store are permitted to, and when the privilege is exercised, the warehouse, elevator, mill, etc., are thus brought under the law and the jurisdiction of the public service commission, as public utilities," the letter from Riley continues.

"See the act of 1913, creating the commission, and the commission order, Circular No. 97, issued May, 1913.

Such as elect to store grain and other produce, are required to file schedules of rates, and otherwise qualify as storage houses.

There is no law in this state that will permit or require warehouses or elevators generally to perform this service, and as stated, it is wholly a voluntary matter with the elevator or warehouse man, whether he comes in or not, and but few, if any,

would wish to qualify, if they have to comply with the rules, regulations, etc., of the commission, as outlined in circular No. 97 of the public service commission, to which your attention is invited, and especially to the order of the commission on the fourth page thereof.

"I am prompted to write this communication only because of the circular letter of Mr. Lapp's, that would, unexplained, mislead those that accepted it without further investigation, and thus subject grain dealers and millers to unwarranted criticism at the hands of the farmers, who might desire the kind of service in question."

Mr. Lapp said that if a warehouse owner desires to discontinue business there is nothing in the utility law, of course, to prevent him from so doing, but he also said the utility law provides that if the warehouse owner opens his establishment.

FARM SOLVES JAIL PROBLEM

Many of Them Are Empty Since Putnamville Institution Started Is Self-Supporting.

NOT YET READY FOR WINTER

Prisoners Engaged in Construction of Railroad, Grubbing, Reclaiming Land And Farming:

(U. S. Staff Correspondent)
Indiana State Farm, Putnamville, Ind., Aug. 21.—Men that otherwise would be a dead weight on their communities—567 of these men—are here living again the life of the Hoosier pioneer.

Rescued from idleness in the county jails these men are engaged in the primitive work of building a settlement out of the raw materials and instead of being a burden to the state, they are supporting themselves.

Members of the state board of charities, a non-partisan board, are known to believe that this farm solves the county jail problem. Secretary Butler of the board has reports that many county jails are empty since the farm was opened.

Located on a tract of 1,600 acres, the farm presents most of the features of Indiana's natural resources. Prisoners have felled trees in its forests for lumber to build the one-story structures. They have quarried their stone and dug their own wells. Now they are planting orchards, harvesting crops and erecting more buildings.

The contract has just been let for a $20,000 power plant. This will furnish heat and power. A pumping station connected with it will supply 600 gallons of water a minute. So the prisoners do not have to deal entirely with raw materials.

The United Press interviewed C. E. Talkington, superintendent of the farm, today to get his idea of what the farm is doing—what is done and what its future will be.

Asked whether the farm is ready for winter, Talkington said it is not. We must first install the heating plant, he said. "With it will come the lighting plant, more permanent water system and the laundry. We need also a hospital and a recreation building. The institution is being built by prison labor and we are required to have the prison labor before the work can be done.

"Winter will make some changes in the work," he said. We will be prepared to furnish productive labor for prisoners during the winter months. Our chief work will consist of clearing land, ditching and operating a small stone crushing plant, which should be enlarged. The prisoners are now engaged in building construction, road building, railroad grading, fencing, sewer digging, grubbing, reclaiming land, farming and gardening. At present the only industrials that bring profit are farming and gardening.

Talkington pointed out the one prisoner sentenced under the new "lazy husband" law. The man was working industriously. "He works very well," said Talkington.

"It is difficult to estimate the value of the labor to the state," said the superintendent. "The state is getting the institution built and is paying only the salaries of officers and employees, the cost of building material not produced here and the cost of maintenance of prisoners. The price of meals at present is about 15 cents per prisoner per day. The monthly payroll has never exceeded $800. However, we need more employees."

Talkington was asked concerning the "escape" problem. He said that out of 557, the total number committed, 64 have escaped. Of these 23 have been recaptured. All recaptured prisoners have either been tried and sentenced to state prison for from two to five years, or are in jail awaiting trial.

I think this punishment entirely suitable, and while it has not entirely prevented escapes, it probably will greatly reduce the number when better understood. New prisoners do not seem impressed with the fate of

Poultry Can Be Kept Successfully On Small Farms And City Tracts

(By United Press)

Washington, D. C., Aug. 21.—Poultry can be kept successfully on a small amount of land, for this reason, it is particularly adapted to the suburbs of large cities and to small towns. The waste products of the kitchen and the table may be used to advantage and there is always a market for eggs and dressed poultry or, if used at home, the consumer is certain that he has a strictly fresh product.

When many birds are kept in a small space, however, the ground is likely to become foul. It is, therefore, advisable to divide the lot and sow part of it with some quick growing grain such as oats, wheat or rye. In this way the yards may be rotated every three or four weeks during the growing season, the flocks being turned on the growing grain when it is a few inches high. A good combination is oats and wheat in equal parts, sowing six or seven bushels to the acre (43,560 square feet).

For the poultry house, about four square feet of floor space per bird should be allowed for the general purpose breeds. The other essentials are fresh air, dryness and sunlight.

Birds that are too fat will lay few eggs. It is therefore, advisable to make them work for most of their feed by scratching in the litter of which there should be about four inches on the floor. A good feed mixture is a scratch ration composed of equal parts of corn, wheat and oats, and a mash of two parts corn meal and one part each of bran, middlings and corn meal. Feeding about equal quantities of the scratch ration and of mash. This should be scattered in the litter morning and

Talkington suggested that the legislature would do well to allow what he called a "good time," commuting, for example 5 days out of 30 for good deportment and labor. He suggested also that a small wage be allowed a man's family or those dependent on him.

The courts are co-operating with the farm, he said, but he asked that they exercise more care not to send to the farm men of unsound mind or with diseased bodies, ripples, derelicts and etc. "We are not equipped to handle such cases and feel they should not be sent here at present. I should like to suggest to the courts that this institution be not required to accept prisoners with sentences of longer than one year.

"Those with short sentences are not so apt to try to escape, when they realize they are making themselves liable to sentences of from 2 to

Gives Party Bad Start

Although "Who's Who in America" shows that Victor Murdock of Kansas is forty-four years old, he would appear to be a typical representative of a younger generation that has neglected its Bible and may not safely venture to adorn its literary style with Biblical allusion. Mr. Murdock announces his readiness "to say flat-footedly that we Progressives are going into the 1916 fight as a party and to win." In this utterance he trod the politician's familiar ground safely enough, but unfortunately he was tempted to say further that the Progressive platform had become "the Ark of the Covenant" to hundreds of thousands of "aggressive Americans" and that "there is not a township anywhere without its groups of Hittites devoted solely to its preservation."

Mr. Roosevelt has likened the Progressives to the "hosts of Armageddon" and Mr. Murdock seems to wish to frame his political pronouncements after the models furnished by his admired chief, but when he describes the faithful members of his party as "Hittites" he invites the smile of any half-grown youngster who knows the inside of a Sunday school. Apparently Mr. Murdock has forgotten that the Hittites were one of the condemned nations that were driven out of the promised land by chosen and victorious Israel. In consequence he has blundered into a Biblical allusion whereby he unintentionally begins his party's campaign of 1916 with a prophecy of disaster.

Ford Prefers Newspapers.

Speaking before the St. Louis Advertising club recently, C. A. Brownell who has been advertising manager of the Ford Motor company for nine years, said:

"Our advertising department, in buying advertising is absolutely devoid of sentiment, as in the buying of vanadium steel or any other merchandise. We figure that it is as much a part of the cost of producing an automobile as is the steering wheel or the carburetor, and we buy our advertising in as cold blooded a way as we do the steering wheel. For our purpose, we almost exclusively use the newspapers, because we find that through them we reach the people along the lines of the least resistance."

"One of our reasons for selecting the newspapers is that we have learned to follow the local advertisers' lead. We have for a long time used the so-called national magazines, but I would rather, 10 to 1, insert a moderate sized copy in a newspaper than in any of the national magazines, because I know that there it will come face to face with the man who is going to buy a car alongside the intimate reading matter that is part of his daily reading. It is because of this possibility of getting in close personal touch with them that we use the newspapers, and I would rather be where the mass of advertising is, in the newspapers that carry the most than not. Place it in the paper which is the most used."

His Biggest Interest

A man in another state was once asked which of his several investments paid him highest rate of interest, and he promptly replied that it was the three dollars he paid on his subscription to the local paper.

"One day I wanted to buy a cow," he said, "and was intended to make a trip of about fifteen miles to get one that I knew was for sale at a certain price. But just before starting I happened to pick up the local paper and noticed that a nearby neighbor was offering one of the same breed at a dollar less than the other one. He really sold it to me for $4 less. I saved a long thirty mile drive and $4 in cash because I had paid a dollar for the paper."

"That was just one instance, but as a matter of fact I saved both time and money in fifteen or twenty days' time during the year, and although reading the ads in a paper that cost me but three dollars a year, I consider that three dollars is the best investment I ever made, and I am investing as regularly as the year rolls around, and always with the most satisfactory results."

APPEALS FOR A TURKS KILLING ALL PRISONERS

State Superintendent Greathouse Issues Statement in Connection With Special Day.

NECESSARY FOR SCHOOLS

Health is Prime Asset For Boys and Girls, Statement on Disease Prevention Day Says.

An appeal for healthier bodies for Indiana boys and girls has just been issued by Charles A. Greathouse, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, in connection with Indiana's observance of Disease Prevention Day, Friday, October 1.

"Healthy bodies for the boys and girls of Indiana are necessary qualifications for successful public school work" says Greathouse. "Health bespeaks enjoyment of life and greater efficiency in doing one's work in the world. Disease decreases deficiency. Ignorance of the simple rules of everyday living or carelessness in obeying them is often the cause of arrested development.

"What shall it profit a state, if, through education, the children are given power, both intellectual and spiritual, yet through disease they lose the physical vigor with which to act upon the world so as to become effective future citizens?

"The most important mission of our schools and one of the most sacred civics obligations of this age consists in the prevention of disease, the preservation of health, the prolongation of life through the dissemination of a knowledge of the simple fundamental laws of health and sanitation among our rising generation.

"Recognizing this fact the State Department of Public Instruction heartily endorses the Governor's Proclamation of Disease Prevention Day and, therefore, urges all school superintendents, teachers and patrons to co-operate in this great movement of social and educational betterment."

ROCKEFELLER IS CHANGED MAN

He is Entirely Different Since His Wife Died, Attendants at Forest Hill Say.

STILL MAKES VISIT TO POND

Cleveland, O., August 21—There's a changed master at Forest Hill, the big estate of the world's richest man.

That's what John D. Rockefeller's closest friends are saying, after visits to the oil king's estate. The old attendants know what has caused the change, they say. It is because their mistress has gone. For the first time, Rockefeller tramps and drives about his estate without the companionship of his wife, who died last February.

Most every morning, about 9 o'clock, Rockefeller walks slowly down from the big house to the lily pond at the foot of the long north slope. He stands for a moment watching the waters, then turns sadly away.

In past years, Rockefeller and his wife used to stroll to the pond, arm in arm, every morning after breakfast, which was served promptly at 7 o'clock. Attendants tell, too, how the changed master broke down and cried at his first breakfast at Forest Hill when he saw the empty chair.

Rockefeller formerly played golf with a keen delight almost every day. He seldom plays now and when he does, the old-time swing is not there.

"Under every tree near my house here I see a memory picture of children playing and merry family groups," Rockefeller tells visitors. "I am happiest here."

Warfare Without Quarter is Being Conducted by Them on Gallipoli Peninsula

BELIEVE EMPIRE AT STAKE

Every Available Man is Being Used And Government Restrictions Are Very Strict

BY HENRY WOOD
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

Constantinople, July 21 (By Courier to Dedeagatch and thence by mail to New York)—A warfare almost without quarter is being conducted by the Turks on the Gallipoli peninsula, according to stories circulated here. That no prisoners are being taken is freely charged.

What becomes of some of the English and French who fall into the hands of Turks, was unconsciously tipped off by one of the Turkish wounded recently. Upon his arrival at a hospital at which the American Red Cross is in charge he expressed his amazement at resemblance of American doctor, whose name for obvious reasons I dare not mention, to an English soldier whom his company had taken prisoner a few days before and the latter had killed.

"But why did you kill him?" demanded the American Red Cross doctor.

"Why he was our prisoner," replied the simple minded and somewhat puzzled Turk.

No doubt exists any longer in the mind of any Turk that the existence of the Ottoman empire is at stake in the fighting now going on at the Dardanelles. This is believed to explain to a large degree the manner in which the lost men of the empire are still coming forward to fight and in which the government is permitted without protest to drain the entire country of its last resource for the conduct of the war.

Not a day passes at Constantinople that the trains and boats do not bring small but fresh contingents of men from the farthest points of the empire. As a rule each lot does not number more than 50 or 100 but they come regularly every day if not several times a day. For the most part now they are old men with gray hair and gray beards. They march stolidly into town, clad in rags with which they have left their herds or villages, and proceed to the commissary headquarters. There they are fitted out with uniforms and arms and a few days later march out again for the Dardanelles.

In equal manner every incoming train and ship brings its little quota of food for the army. For the most part, this consists of a herd of sheep. It is driven through the streets of the city from the train or boat that brought it in, to the army slaughter house, and the next day it too is rushed to the Dardanelles in the form of fresh meat.

To secure food supplies for the army the government has adopted the rule of requisitioning everything it needs. Only in a few instances has even a small portion of the price been paid in cash. The rule is to give a receipt which states that the government at some indefinite time in the future will pay.

In strange contrast to the official announcements of continual successes by the Turkish troops on the peninsula is the arrival of the wounded.

When the approach of a hospital transport is signalled all of the public cabs are ordered to the water front to bring the soldiers up to the hospitals. Street cars flying the flags of the Turkish Red Crescent Society are also used. One night this interminable cortege of wounded began passing my hotel at 10:30 in the evening. At 4:30 it was still passing. It makes less impression on the public. It is now believed that there are not less than 100,000 at Constantinople but they are all soldiers with slight wounds as the most seriously injured are kept at Rodosto where more prompt attention can be given them.

In an effort to raise additional revenues for the war the duty on imports has been raised to 40 per cent. This does not apply to times which can be used in the conduct of the war. They come in without duty the government reserving the right to requisition them as soon as they arrive.

The restrictions for the government of foreigners still living in Turkey have been redoubled. To quit the empire, a special permit must be secured from the police. To have this it is necessary to give 48 hours notice of the intention to leave. Then after the police have secured all information possible from outside sources, the applicant must present himself personally and submit to an interrogation. If he can convince the police that his intentions for leaving are purely legitimate he is granted the "veika" or permit.

SPEEDWAY IS AN IDEAL LOCATION

Greatest Place For "War in Indiana," Spectacle to be Produced Labor Day.

A VETERAN IS IN CHARGE
Captain J. J. Toffy, of United States Army, Will Direct Maneuvers of Indiana National Guard.

Indianapolis, August 21.—West Point strategy and a millionaire's purse have joined forces to make the great war spectacle, "War in Indiana," to be staged at the Indianapolis motor speedway, Monday, Labor day, the greatest event of its kind ever held.

Captain J. J. Toffy, of the United States army, a veteran of the Philippine campaign, and Carl G. Fisher, president of the Indianapolis motor speedway, have been placed in supreme charge of the production, with power to mould it as they see fit.

After a preliminary examination of the speedway, Captain Toffy immediately proceeded to block out the strategic phases of the spectacle, sketching in entrenchments, buildings, and field positions as he went along. Toffy's idea is to have continuous, smooth, and flowing action, that will not admit the spectator a moment's rest.

"The speedway is the greatest place for a show of this kind I ever saw," said Toffy. "The immense stretch of grandstands, enclosing two sides of the course, coupled with the arrangement of safety walls, barbed wire fences, woods, creeks, natural embankments, etc., makes possible the production of a spectacle in which every essential detail will take place immediately in front of the stands. 'War in Indiana,' will be the most exciting that ever happened."

With Fisher's promotive energy and unlimited financial resources to back him, Toffy will be able to put on a spectacle that will be perfect in every detail. From the firing of the opening gun to the finish it will be a literal reproduction of warfare in Europe—the greatest, most stupendous production ever staged in this country.

MANY MOTOR TO PANAMA FAIR FINALLY DECIDED

Strange Machines Are Plentiful at San Francisco Along With Strange Sights

FLIVVERING "SOME" VACATION
Large Number of Trans-Continental Tourists Get Back to Nature Along Route

BY FRED S. FERGUSON
(U. P. Staff Correspondent.)

San Francisco, Aug. 21.—Hop in your flivver and come out to the fair.

There are now hundreds, possibly thousands of automobiles from every part of the country in San Francisco today. Some have been here long enough after trans-continental drives to be cleaned up so that they look like home cars. In that event the fact that they are several hundred miles from home is not revealed until they kick up the dust in your face and you catch a glimpse of their license tag. Others roll through the streets coated with dust and splattered with many thicknesses of mud. They are the new arrivals.

Flivvering to the Fair is obviously the way in which hundreds of Americans are spending their vacations. The Ferries are carrying scores of machines across the bay daily as they roll into Oakland and snort along the water front to be carried over the last leg of their journey to Frisco. Packed away amidst suitcases, tents, coats and coverings of every description are dusty, sunburned men and women. They may look like tramps, but they're happy.

Some of them have traveled from ocean to ocean. Others came from the northwest middlewest or the south. But all have seen more of the country than they ever saw before or had ever hoped to see. Many of them have lived in the open for weeks. Fearing their appetites, the sea lions on the rocks off the Cliff House have disappeared. It is a real invasion of a great army on wheels; an army of men, women and children raw into the open and across the continent by the exposition, and, having been drawn, entering into the thrills of the new experience with vigor.

All the trans-continental trips are not being made "in the rough," as one motor enthusiast put it, but in hundreds of cases the parties have slept in the open at night, cooked their meals at the roadside and "got back to nature." Hotels are patronized only when the weather is bad or it is decided to grant special dispensation for a meal off a table, a tub and a soft bed. In the "de lux" trips, travel is by easy stages and the schedule is so framed as to bring the party within reach of a hotel by nightfall.

In one garage the other night cars from Tennessee, Pennsylvania, Ohio, New Jersey and Michigan were standing side by side. In another were machines from New York, Illinois, Georgia, Alabama, Wisconsin and Indiana. The whole list of the states of the Union might be gone through and for everyone there is a representative car being cleaned up in some garage. Every driver observes the traffic rules he knew at home, but knowing nothing about San Francisco's rules, the latter are cracked in fifty different ways each day.

The different types of cars which have traveled over desert and plain, forded rivers and climbed mountains is not only startling, but in some cases appalling. The big machines are taken as a matter of course, but you ought to see some of the weather beaten little fowls. It seems that for some of them every breath will be their last as the long journey is completed. They sneak into a garage with tail dragging and all pep gone. See them again, however, a short time afterward when the mud has been taken off and the dust cleaned out of their lungs and you'll see them, tail up and snorting, just as frisky as the day they left home.

WEIGHTY TOPIC FINALLY DECIDED

G. H. HENDREN, Chief of State Board of Accounts, Gives Opinion on Transportation

INDIANA SCHOOL CHILDREN
Pupils in Townships Where Schools Have Been Abandoned Must be Taken to School

County Superintendent C. M. George has received the following letter from the state examiner concerning the transportation of pupils in townships where schools have been abandoned. According to the superintendent this has been a weighty question and this decision decides the matter definitely. The letter in full follows:

The act of March, 11, 1907, as amended March 14, 1913, requires township trustees to provide and maintain means of transportation for all pupils in an abandoned school district who live more than two miles and for all pupils between the ages of six and twelve who live more than one mile from the school to which they are attached, whenever a majority of the patrons of such school petition the trustee to provide such transportation.

This act further requires township trustees in all townships where a school has been abandoned under the provisions of said act to provide for the transportation of all pupils of any other school in such townships, who live more than two miles and of all pupils between the ages of six and twelve who live more than one mile from the school to which they are attached, whenever a majority of the patrons of such school petition the trustee to provide such transportation.

First, those pupils who live in an abandoned school district and who live more than two miles from the school to which they are transferred, and those pupils similarly situated between the ages of six and twelve who live more than one mile from the school to which they are attached, when a majority of the patrons of such school district petition the trustee to provide such transportation.

Second, where a school has been abandoned under the act of 1907, as amended in 1913, and there are pupils in any other district of said township who live more than two miles, and pupils between the ages of six and twelve who live more than one mile from the school to which they are attached, when a majority of the patrons of such school district petition the trustee to provide such transportation.

Third, where a school has been abandoned under the act of 1907, as amended in 1913, and there are pupils in any other district of said township who live more than two miles, and pupils between the ages of six and twelve who live more than one mile from the school to which they are attached, when a majority of the patrons of such school district petition the trustee to provide such transportation.

ANOTHER ATTEMPT TO LOWER RECORD

Motorcycle Riders at State Fair Ground Will go After Mark Made Last Year

VARIED PROGRAM OFFERED

(By United Press.)
Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 21.—Motorcyclists this afternoon made another attempt to break the fair ground track record of 49 seconds for a mile, made by Ray Creviston of Converse, Ind., on an Indian last fall. It was the third attempt this summer to lower Creviston's record.

A varied program of races from a five mile novelty race of side cars in which the passengers and drivers changed at the end of each hour, to a fifty mile event drew a large crowd of the two wheeled motor race bugs. A pursuit race in which the riders started at equal distances and put rivals out of the race by passing them was the most popular race of the afternoon.

Youthful Looking

(The Beauty Sealer.)
The real secret of keeping young-looking and beautiful," says a well-known physician, "is to keep the liver and bowels normally active. Without these results, poisonous waste products remain in the system, polluting the blood, and doing in various organs, disease, pains, etc. One of the chief causes of nervous anemia is sluggish, dull-eyed, wrinkled and sallow of face."

"But to get liver and bowel working as they ought, without producing evil after-effects, has been the problem. Fortunately, there is a prescription of unquestioned merit, which may now be had without trouble, for it. The value is due largely to an ingredient derived from the humble May-apple, or its root, which has been called 'vegetable calomel' because of its effectiveness—though of course it is not to be classed with the real calomel of mercurial origin. There is no habit-forming constituent, so that it can be taken daily, and there is no need to follow by weakness or exhaustion. On the contrary, these harmless vegetable tablets tend to impart tone and elasticity to the relaxed intestinal wall. Sentinel tablets, which may be procured from any druggist—dime's worth will do—will prove a revelation to any constipated, liver-troubled person."

Chief Cause of Pimples,
Blotches, Sallow Skin

(Messenger of Health.)

Unightly eruptions, pimples, boils, blotches, sallow or muddy skin, usually are due to a sluggish liver, a constipated bowel, and a polluted blood stream as a consequence. How foolish in such cases to resort to outward application which can never produce a permanent result. If more people only knew it, there is a very simple remedy to be found in any drug store, which is as effective as it is harmless and quick acting. It is an old formula long recognized by the medical profession, which has been put in tablet form, and at such small cost no one need now be deprived of its wonderful benefits.

"Sentinel tablets"—that's the name—are entirely vegetable and there's no habit-forming ingredient. You need only get about a dime's worth, and swallow one at bedtime to realize there's nothing else quite so good for the purpose. Action in the morning is always so soothing, and the result of a weakening after-effect that you feel truly refreshed and invigorated. Sentinel tablets are not only the finest remedy known for constipation and torpid liver, but offer the safest, most sensible treatment for complexion difficulties of the character mentioned.

Great Demand for New
Constipation Remedy

They say that the advent of the "sentinel tablet" as a vegetable substitute for calomel has created an extraordinary demand for this remarkable product. It seems to have made a hit particularly with those afflicted with chronic constipation, who were quick to recognize its advantages over calomel and the usual laxatives.

Sentinel tablets, aside from their efficacy, doubtless owe their success largely to a desire to aid in bringing about a natural function—instead of encouraging the "cathartic habit." Also, instead of disturbing the membranous lining of the organs involved, they exert a healing influence. Instead of weakening, they add tone to the intestinal wall. And they work so quickly that there are of course no effects on this account to the violently acting purgatives. Their inexpensiveness is another reason for the popularity of sentinel tablets. One need procure only a dime's worth, and take one tablet—upon retiring, to be convinced that the ideal remedy for constipation, torpid liver, and their many evils consequences, has finally been found.—Drugists Review.

DISTRIBUTION IS DISCUSSED

Economic Laws Would Not Long
Permit Existence of Agency
Which is a Parasite.

The present abundance of fresh vegetables and fruits brings with it the perennial necessity for their rapid, economical distribution and for encouraging a generous and steady consumption. The machinery for moving these food products is complex and retail dealers are often accused of not following closely the wholesale market quotations; that in times of glutted markets do not cut prices severely and aid in a rapid movement from producer to consumer. But the responsibility for slow and uneconomical movement into consumptive channels is difficult to trace. The large class of food distributors known as "middlemen" are often accused of levying, arbitrarily, a heavy tribute on all stuffs from the producer to the consumer. The attention of the public has been frequently directed to increased costs of products rather than service rendered. The new United States Department of Agriculture Bulletin, No. 267, Methods of Wholesale Distribution of Fruits and Vegetables on Large Markets, does not indict the "middlemen" as a class, although it points out some of the abuses in the trade. As a matter of fact, say the Department's specialists, when discussing the present marketing organization, economic laws would not permit the long continued existence of a marketing agency which was solely a parasite.

Several important factors have contributed to the establishment of many middlemen as necessary agents in the present system of marketing. Production during last decade has increased greatly, and improved methods and facilities for handling the increase have been introduced. Keeping pace with increased production has come the demand of consumers for more elaborate and efficient service. Seldom is the fact considered that service can become a very expensive luxury. With the widening of the distance between the city and the sources of its fruit and vegetable supplies there has arisen the necessity for special agencies to meet the changed conditions.

The present distributive machinery, with all its strong points and its weaknesses, has been created of necessity, and it has weathered the storm of much adverse criticism. Every part of the country is now enjoying the perishable products of the most remote districts. Any readjustment of present market practices must be based upon the fact that some agency must continue to perform the functions of the present-day middleman.

The problems involved in handling goods through a large market differ greatly from those of production. Usually one man or one firm can not handle both production and distribution and succeed at both. The vast volume of business transacted at large market centers makes necessary some special agencies which can devote all their energies to distribution. Especially does the machinery for efficient marketing become necessary when perishable goods are to be handled. Commodities of this sort must be moved rapidly, must be distributed evenly, and from their very nature permit of no weakness in distributive machinery, if they are to be sold at a profit.

With the perishable nature of a large part of the fruits and vegetables marketed there must be some loss. This often totals higher than the farmer realizes. For instance, according to the Department's market agent the loss to such commodities as strawberries, peaches, and grapes sometimes amounts to 30 or 40 per cent before they reach the hands of the retail trade. Losses due to spoiling may be the result of the shipper's sending overripe or diseased fruit, or failing to give proper attention to packing, or loading, or to bracing the packages in the car. Sometimes the railroad is at fault. Delay in transit, improper ventilation or refrigeration, or unnecessarily rough handling of cars may contribute to rapid deterioration of the shipment on arrival.

This remarkable photograph, one of the London Mail's prize pictures, was taken "somewhere in France," and shows three shells bursting over a house. An exact reproduction of this scene will be staged during the great war spectacle, "War in Indiana," at the Indianapolis motor speedway, Monday, September 6. Smoke bombs, minus the shrapnel, will be employed to give the effect of flying shells. The result will be just as picturesque, though not as deadly.

The lack of proper refrigeration facilities at distributing centers is a cause of much loss. When produce moves slowly, there is often much spoilage before complete sales can be made. Rough handling during unloading or carting is another important cause of loss. As a matter of fact, the opportunities for losses due to the spoiling of commodities are so manifold that it is impossible to enter into a complete discussion of them.

TOURISTS WILL BE DISAPPOINTED

Americans Expecting to Witness Coronation in Japan Will Not Have The Chance

THERE WILL BE NO PARADE

(By United Press.)
Tokio, July 17 (By Mail)—Reports are arriving in Japan that parties of American tourists are being made up to visit Japan in November and attend the coronation of the Emperor. Japan has many attractions in November when the maples are red, but Americans should be warned that seeing the coronation will not be one of them.

The ceremony is entirely private, taking place from start to finish within the walls of the Imperial castle at Kyoto. The only foreigners who will be admitted are the envoys extraordinary of foreign powers.

In view of the war it is expected that the European countries will appoint the ambassadors and ministers resident here. Chairs will be provided for them in the great hall where the Emperor after the coronation in private before the shrine of his ancestors will announce himself to representatives of his subjects and of foreign nations. Those official personages alone will be permitted within the walls of the castle and only for this semi-public part of the ceremony and for the banquet which will take place the following day.

There will be no processions which tourists might hope to record on their cameras and neither influence nor dollars will open the closed doors of the castle.

There will be of course, the sight of the Emperor and Empress arriving and departing by train, and Kyoto, always a lovely city, will be filled with the bustle of uniformed and decorated persons coming and going. But to the Japanese mind it is profanity to regard the coronation as a spectacle and foreigners in making their plans had better take into account the absolute certainty that they will see nothing more of the coronation than the walls of the building in which it is being held.

Up Until Their Arrival The City Had Gazed Only Upon Those Leav-

BY ALICE ROHE

(U. P. Staff Correspondent.)
Rome, July 14 (By Mail)—Six hundred wounded soldiers, the first visual horror of Italy's entrance into the war, arrived in Rome today.

Rome, emotional, responsive, gazed upon the unloading of the two trainloads and their dispatch in tram-cars, ambulances and automobiles to the various hospitals. It was a sight long to be remembered. Traffic was stopped as the vehicles bearing the Red Cross passed through the city.

Women wept and men, hats in hand, cheered the returning wounded, while from the same depot fresh recruits were departing for the front.

So far Rome had gazed only upon these departing soldiers, banners had flown, and flowers had pelted the "soldati." Today all was changed. The little Crown Prince and his sisters, his mother Queen Eleonora and the Queen Mother Marguerita have been at the station to cheer the soldiers on their way to the mountains to join the men with the King.

Today in the midst of the surging crowd the Crown Prince again was among the people. Two wounded men in particular attracted his attention for they wore upon their breasts medals for bravery. Strongly affected at the sight of these two heroes the little Prince insisted that they enter his automobile and be conducted to the hospital in his company. The Roman crowd, watching the scene broke into cheers and wild demonstrations.

"Vive Prince Humbert!" "Vive Savoia," "Vive the army."

But the Prince of Piedmont, future King of Italy, his eyes fastened eagerly on the two soldiers, began to question them eagerly.

"Have you seen papa—the King?"

The two soldiers, eyes filled with tears, voices broken with emotion tried in vain to reply.

"I would like to go to the front and fight with the soldiers for Italy with papa," he said affectionately, encouraging the two soldiers to talk.

"But have you seen papa," he reiterated.

The two soldiers weeping and laughing with emotion replied;

"Yes we have seen him. He gave us these medals with his own hands. He shook hands with us. He called us his brave sons."

"And how is he?" cried the Crown Prince.

"Fine," replied the soldiers "and light-hearted when among us. He acts as though it were a holiday instead of a war."

Then the two soldiers recounted to the little prince all the details of the encounter in which they were wounded. And not until he had seen them safely placed in the hospital would he leave their sides. At the station to greet the returning wounded men from the front was also Queen Helena, the Queen Mother Marguerita and the Duke of Genoa.

The number of wounded is being kept secret throughout Italy. The Roman papers have not even been allowed to print the number of today's returning men.

Junior High School Smaller to That to be Used Here This Year Organized Elsewhere.

BULLETIN ON THE SUBJECT

U. S. Bureau of Education Says It Is to Provide Means for Individual Differences.

Reorganization of education under the junior high school plan or something similar is definitely under way, according to Prof. T. H. Briggs whose review of secondary education has just been issued by the U. S. Bureau of Education. The junior high school plan will be given trial here this year for the first time.

The junior high school has been defined, as an organization of grades 7 to 8 or 7 to 9 to provide means for individual differences, especially by an earlier introduction of prevocational work and of subjects usually taught in the high school.

There are now 57 cities in the United States where junior high schools are organized in unmistakable form.

"One advantage claimed for the junior high school," declares Dr. Briggs, "is that it groups children so that subjects seldom taught in the grammar grades may be introduced, thereby giving each pupil a more intelligent understanding of the work of the world, of the possibilities in the subject and in the pupil himself.

"The junior high school also makes easier the transition of pupils to the high school. That the change between the elementary and the high school should be so sharp permits no justification. To bridge this gap by earlier introduction to high-school subjects and methods of teaching has greatly improved results, it is claimed.

"The junior high school has furthermore greatly decreased elimination of pupils from school. This elimination after the seventh, eighth, and ninth grades has been one of the greatest reproaches to our educational system. Any plan that promises to retain children in school beyond these grades is worthy of most careful consideration."

The statistics given Dr. Briggs show that a much larger per cent. of students enter high school where junior high schools exist than before they were organized.

That the junior high school furnishes an opportunity of various need, reforms in instruction is the final claim of the new movement, according to Dr. Briggs. He points out that in the junior high school a course of study based on the newer principles of psychology, sociology, and economics, various provisions for individual differences, and especially an improved method of teaching, can now be introduced.

Los Angeles (Cal.) High School;

Belo (Mont.) High School; Wisconsin High School, Madison, Wis.; and Horace Mann School, New York City, are cited as successfully organized junior high schools, "Los Angeles having far outstripped all other cities in developing them."

WANT ADS BRING RESULTS

NEED MORE ROOM AT FEDERAL PEN

Because of crowded conditions
next Congress may be asked for another prison.

ONE IS NEEDED FOR WOMEN

Only three states in Union without compulsory education laws, are in South.

(By United Press.)

Washington, Aug. 21.—Housing federal prisoners has become so serious a problem that it is possible Congress will soon be asked for an appropriation for another penitentiary. For want of room in federal places the government has been distributing male and female prisoners among state prisons, and there are good reasons, it is thought, why these, especially the women, should be directly under Uncle Sam's control.

Inadequacy of present prison facilities is causing Attorney General Gregory no little concern. After a recent inspection of the penitentiary at Fort Leavenworth, he announced that he intended to ask Congress to make further provision for prisoners.

There are but three federal penitentiaries—Atlanta, Ga., Fort Leavenworth, Kan., McNeil Island, Wash. A new one probably would be located somewhere in the East. That would strike a good medium, it is thought, between Atlanta and Fort Leavenworth.

"One of the reasons why the federal government should cease sending its prisoners to state institutions," said the Attorney General, "is that the parole laws cannot be properly administered unless prisoners are kept directly under the eyes of government agents. Then, besides, this thing of scattering women prisoners all around is bad generally."

The need of a special prison for women was emphasized by the Attorney General. The possibility of such an institution being authorized is considered remote, yet the head of the Department of Justice will sound sentiment in Congress on the point.

Uncle Sam has only about 40 out of about 500 women in his own prisons. There are approximately 600 males that the Attorney General thinks should be taken out of State penitentiaries.

Labor at federal prisons is a distinct problem with the Department of Justice. If the Attorney General can have his way all federal prisoners will soon be turning out general supplies for the government, including equipment for the army and navy such as uniforms, shoes and caps. Congress will be asked to authorize this. The scheme has worked well in Japan. This is pointed out as another reason back of the plan for concentration of all federal prisoners in all and their combined labor on supplies would save Uncle Sam large sums of money.

A race to avoid being the last state in the Union to adopt compulsory education is apparently under way in the Southern states, according to reports received at the United States Bureau of Education. There are now only three states without such laws. Florida having recently joined Texas and South Carolina in adopting compulsory education by legislative enactment. The three states still without such laws are Georgia, Mississippi and Alabama.

Officials of the Bureau of Education pointed out that this year's compulsory educational legislation is part of a big educational advance all along the line. Nearly all the state legislatures were in session during 1915 and much of the educational discussion that has been going on for several years crystallized into law. The Alabama legislature has reconvened for the summer session and much school legislation will be discussed. The fact that the Alabama legislature does not meet again for four years makes it likely that Georgia and Mississippi may get ahead of her in adopting compelitory education unless action is taken this year.

Another point that the Bureau of Education remarks on is the fact that examinations for promotion in schools are going on.

"New schools now rely entirely upon examination as a test for promotion," declared W. S. Deffenbaugh, chief of the division of school administration of the U. S. Bureau of Education, in his annual review of school conditions in the smaller cities.

"In some schools," he said, "examinations count one-half, while in others they count only one-fourth. It is now recognized that examinations are not true tests of the pupils' ability to do the next grade's work, and that a pupil would not be promoted on what he knows but on what he can do. Of 750 superintendents in the small cities, 669 say that they are now depending on examination much less than formerly."

SOCIETY NOTE FROM GEORGIA NEWSPAPER

The Kokomo Tribune, in its funny column, presents the following society note, suggesting that it would look well in a Georgia newspaper:

A pleasant lynching was enjoyed at a park near this city last evening. The hosts were in full mask costume. The sheriff laughingly turned over the prisoner when courteously requested to do so, and the party, in high spirits, caroling joyous songs, rode to the beautiful hillside selected for the touching ceremony.

The occasion was all that could be desired. Never has the chivalry of the old south shown to better advantage. Always eager to do anything that would help the advancement of Georgia, most of the population of the central part of the state turned out for the event.

There was a pleasing diversion when, before the rope was stretched, Col. Blank, with true southern courtesy, kicked the prisoner in the face. The colonel was heartily cheered, but took his honors modestly. He hoped he said, he knew the duties of a true son of the south, and he would ill wear the name of southern gentleman if he did not occasionally perform some little act to deserve it.

The prisoner was allowed to hang for five hours, so that all could enjoy the spectacle beheading, also too rare in our fair state. Special arrangements were made by the committee to allow the children to feast their eyes to the full on the happy sight, so that the little minds might be brought to a real appreciation of the honor and dignity and chivalry of dear old Georgia.

At last the occasion, as all others must come to an end. The body was taken down, the face duly stamped on, and the guests departed to their pleasant homes hoping to see many happy returns of the day.

LESS THAN HALF GRAIN THRESHED

This is Assertion of Local Elevator Man Who Has Followed The Situation Closely

STILL PRICES ARE DECLINING

This is Explained by Fact That Banner Crops Are Anticipated in Northwest And Canada

That more than fifty per cent of the wheat in Indiana is threshed and that conditions in the state apply to Rush county, was the assertion today of a local elevator man who has been following the situation closely.

It was possible to do very little threshing this week because of the rain. There were two or three nice days, but just as soon as the grain dried out sufficiently to be threshed, along came another rain and nipped the plans of the farmers in the bud-

The loss on the oats crop will be proportionately greater than that on the wheat crop. It has been estimated that not more than fifteen per cent of the oats have been threshed.

Last week the estimate by grain experts was that not more than 30 per cent of the Indiana wheat had been threshed. It would be stretching the point a great deal to assume that twenty per cent of the remainder was threshed this week.

Local elevator men do not expect to receive much more wheat now except that which was threshed before the wet weather began. Wheat that is still standing in the shock is practically useless for elevator purposes and will not likely be threshed even because efforts to dry wheat are not generally very successful.

In spite of the damage that is being done to the wheat crop not only in Indiana but throughout the middlewest by the rains, the price continues to decline. This is said to be due to the fact, a Rushville elevator man said today, that the prospects are brighter than they ever were for a banner crop in the northwest and in Canada. The loss to the crop in the middlewest will be offset, it is believed, by the excellent yields in the northwest and Canada.

Another reason for the continued decrease in the price of wheat is the fact that the allies have already cancelled some orders and that they are now trying to contract for 175,000,000 bushels of this year's crop in Canada. If such a deal is put through, it is declared, the export business from the United States will be practically cut off and all of this year's United States crop will have to be sold here. That would keep the prices here normal, local elevator men say, unless the same weather conditions are experienced in the northwest as here. The crop is just being cut there.

Elevator men say that this year's crop in Canada is estimated at 300,000,000 bushels. Their surplus will amount to 175,000,000, which the Canadians are now trying to sell the allies.

closing with a parade of the premium stock. There will be another fox chase at the close of the morning program.

In the afternoon the 2:12 pace, 2:20 trot and 2:17 pace will be run off. In the first event the purse is $500, in the second $300 and in the third $250, bringing the total in purses offered during the week up to $3,500.

One of the things that is expected to attract special attention at the fair this year is Warren T. McCray's show of blue blooded Herefords, which will be at the Rush county fair. Mr. McCray is president of the Indiana State Board of Agriculture and candidate for the Republican nomination for governor. He is a successful business man and Hereford breeder.

The show herd includes about fifty of the flower of over 400 Herefords which Mr. McCray has on his Orchard Lake Stock Farm near Kentland, and county fairs that are now on the itinerary of the Indiana tour are Columbus, Connersville, Rushville, Shelbyville, Lebanon, Frankfort, Lafayette, Crawfordsville, Terre Haute, North Manchester, and others will be added before the fair season closes. Mr. McCray will make the tour with his herd.

Mr. McCray has in ten years advanced from an obscure breeder of Herefords until he now leads the world. He began his Hereford activities in 1905 with five animals. As his herd has grown in numbers and quality, his stock farm has increased until it now includes 1,500, and it is regarded as one of the best equipped breeding farms in the United States. The first pure-bred bull he bought cost $2,500 and it died before he had obtained much service from it. Since last March Mr. McCray has sold $85,000 worth of his stock to breeders scattered from New York to California, and from Minnesota to Georgia and Texas. One bull was sold for $7,500 to a Montana breeder.

While the McCray cattle will be shown in all of the Hereford classes at the county fairs, the chief purpose of the tour is not to win ribbons.

It is to be an educational tour, which Mr. McCray hopes all Indiana breeders will obtain inspiration that will stimulate them to greater activity in raising the standard of their own breeds at home.

The herd will spend the week of September 6th at the Indiana State Fair, where they will compete for championship honors, and will be seen in the day parades of livestock and in the night horse show.

STILL HOPE TO AVOID A BREAK

Bruguere of New York and Dr. Edmund Woods of Janesville, Wis., were the only Americans on the list, which included twelve other passengers, and officials said they were satisfied the final list will show only two Americans perished. The American consul at Queenstown finally informed today that only two Americans perished.

Practically all of the American survivors made affidavits on their arrival at Queenstown. Ambassador Page here today cabled a summary of them to the state department at Washington. It is understood all the Americans agreed the ship was torpedoed without warning.

TWO BODIES RECOVERED.

(By United Press.)

Queenstown, August 21.—Bodies of two victims of the Arabic disaster, first recovered, were brought to Queenstown today and placed in a morgue to await identifications.

CYMRIC IS CONVOYED.

(By United Press.)

New York, August 21.—Five British warships working in relays convoyed the White Star liner Cymric for thirty-six hours on her voyage from Liverpool to New York, according to passengers aboard the liner which arrived here today. The Cymric took practically the same course traversed by the Arabic.

NOT BEING CONVOYED.

(By United Press.)

London, August 21.—The White Star liner Arabic was not being convoyed when she was torpedoed and sunk Thursday by a German submarine, according to a statement passed by the press bureau this afternoon. The statement, it was said, was authorized by the admiralty.

WIDOW'S BODY FOUND.

(By United Press.)

New York, August 21.—The body of Mrs. Josephine Bruguere, prominent society woman and one of the two Americans who went down with the Arabic, has been found according to a cablegram received here this afternoon.

The body of her maid, Mrs. Margaret Bond, was also found, the message stated.

TURKISH POLICE ARE VERY ACTIVE

Everybody And Everything is Watched by Them as Menace to Empire Increases

CALLS FOR GREAT CAUTION

Position of Germans at Constantinople is Becoming More Delicate Every Day.

BY HENRY WOOD

(U. P. Staff Correspondent.)

Constantinople, (By Courier to Dedeagatch and then by mail) July 14.—More and more, as the existence of the empire becomes menaced more and more does the Turkish police department the one and only department of government for which the Turk has even shown a real genius increase its activities. The Turks say they have a million and a quarter of men under arms. One would be tempted to believe they are referring to the number of policemen.

Recently complaint was made to Enver Pasha that there was too much surveillance of the Scorpion, the United States station ship now anchored in the Bosphorus at the foot of the American College for Girls.

"But it is the duty of the police to watch everything, to watch everybody," replied the 33-year old minister of war. "Every 20 minutes of the day and night a patrol boat passes my house. I am watched like all the rest."

This sensation of being constantly under the eyes of the police produces on the part of the foreigner here a degree of caution. He never knows at what instant a chance word which he may utter may be overheard by a secret policeman and in consequence of which he may be charged with the utterance of treason.

Only a few days ago Colonel Leipziger, the military attache of the Germany embassy was killed. He was a magnificent type of the German officer, over six feet tall, a gentleman both in appearance and in actuality, known and loved by everyone. The official announcement said that while changing from uniform to civilian dress in a little railway station upon his return from the Dardanelles, his revolver had been accidentally discharged the ball entering his forehead.

There was scarcely a foreigner in all Constantinople who did not see in this mysterious death the culmination at least in part of his convictions that sooner or later the Turks will turn on the German officers now stationed at Constantinople. But not a single person in all Constantinople once expressed this suspicion.

"They say it was accidental" is what everyone said to his most intimate friend and to this remarkable silence alone followed. A word more uttered might have been overheard by a secret police and the individual hauled up for treason.

That the position of the Germans at Constantinople is becoming daily more delicate there can be no question. I know personally that even in the case of the death of Colonel Leipziger the Turkish censor insisted that the official announcement as prepared by the German ambassador be submitted before being telegraphed to Berlin and that the original text was altered. Many German officers after their days work at the "Quartier General" change to civilian dress before appearing on the streets in the evening. German and Austrian civilians are leaving by every train. Part of those who left on the same train I did, left cursing the country which had joined them in the war. One German correspondent representing one of Germany's greatest papers—the Berliner Tageblatt—was expelled because he saw things as they actually were and not as the Turks wanted him to see them.

But there is every indication that the German soldiers, sailors and officers now in Turkey will stay to the end. Whether the fate of Turkey may be there is every indication that the empire will hesitate to stand, and if the Turkish empire passes out of existence it is likely these men will pass with it.

TAKES ISSUE WITH J. A. LAPP

ment to store grain for one person, then he must not discriminate and must become, automatically, regulated by the commission law, since he is considered as operating a public utility.

Mr. Lapp said the contention of the warehousemen that the utility law barred them from operating as grain storage houses, unless they desired to be regulated by the commission, was a valid contention but really did not amount to anything, because of the fact that Indiana status regulating warehouses had existed prior to the passage of the utility law and that the former warehouse law provided against discrimination and provided for adequate service, etc., just does the utility law. The former law, however, had little attention paid to it, Mr. Lapp said, whereas the utility law has an executive body to administer the law.

Whenever a warehouseman voluntarily sets himself up as a public warehouse or elevator operator, then he must come under the utility law, Mr. Lapp says, and there can be no question that where such an elevator is operating it must accept grain from any farmer who desires to store it. The operation of recently passed federal status and the utility law now allow the small farmer to store his grain and hold it for higher prices, while using his warehouse receipts as collateral, Mr. Lapp says, while formerly it was usually only the rich farmers who could afford to store their grain for higher prices.
